Gang Chiefs Targets In Crime Drive

Agents Ready to Produce Results In Near Future

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—(UP)—

The government's campaign against racketeers is expected to extend to the highest gang leaders as well as to the hoodlums who fill the ranks.

After working quietly since last spring, when President Hoover instituted the movement, justice department agents were reported today to be ready to show definite results within the near future.

It was understood that much of the attention of the federal agents has been concerned with the activities of the Al Capone gang in Chicago. It was felt that the most desirable way of crushing the organization would be to apprehend its leader. Because of this, it was predicted that Capone himself might soon find himself involved in an income tax charge, the weapon the government can use where others fail.

President Hoover mentioned Capone's brother, Ralph, in making his original announcement at a press conference. At the time it was indicated the more notorious of the two Capones would be named in an indictment similar to that returned against Ralph, who now is appealing a sentence of three years to Leavenworth.

The new announcement that the move against racketeers has been fully organized served to recall this phase of the situation.

The drive against racketeering by the justice and internal revenue departments has been augmented by a move of the customs bureau against narcotic smugglers on the west coast. It was announced yesterday that divisional agencies have been established in Seattle, Portland, Los Angeles and San Diego in addition to the San Francisco headquarters.

Meanwhile the anti-racketeering movement gained attention on Capitol Hill, where Representative Woodruff, Republican, Michigan, announced he would introduce legislation authorizing cooperation of federal and state governments against gang intimidation.

"The man in legitimate business is entitled to protection," Woodruff said, declaring racketeers derived most of their revenue from those attempting to conduct honest enterprises.

REPORT PRICE COACHING LAST BEAR CONTEST

Crowd of 73,000 Present When California Meets Cards

BULLETIN

At the end of the first quarter the score in the California-Stanford university game at Berkeley was 6-0 in favor of the Cardinals.

CALIFORNIA MEMORIAL STADIUM, Berkeley, Nov. 21.—(UP)—

On the green and white floor of a great concrete bowl that was jammed to its last cranny with 73,000 roaring partisans, the California Bears came out today to battle with their traditional foes, the Redmen of Stanford.

High up on Strawberry hill, their legs anchored around the eucalyptus trees against a 200 foot tumble, sat the legendary legions of tightwad hill, those thrifty souls who, at cut prices, watch from half a mile away the struggle in the hollow.

A stony sullenness prevailed in the California stands, due in part to the almost unanimous opinion that the Bears were due to lose; due also to reports that gained wide circulation just before the game that Clarence "Nibs" Price, California coach, had told his team in the dressing room that he was coaching his last game at California.

No confirmation of this report could be had from any reliable source. Price, of course, could not be reached.

NOTRE DAME WINS IN LAST QUARTER

EVANSTON, Ill., Nov. 22.—(UP)—

Notre Dame scored two touchdowns in the final quarter today to defeat Northwestern 14 to 9.

Until the third quarter Northwestern appeared to have the advantage, but in the latter part of the third period Notre Dame began to show its superiority.

WARREN APPOINTED Parole Officer Of School In North

LeRoy "Boss" Warren, of Villa Park, former county probation officer and recently chief of police at San Clemente, has been appointed a parole officer of the Probation School of Industry at Font, it was reported today, and is to start his work for that institution Monday, according to the report. Warren could not be reached for confirmation of the report.

Warren, who has had considerable experience with juveniles in his work in the probation department of the county, is to have charge of the district between Fresno and the state line on the north, it is understood. His work is in connection with the probation department of the school, which is organized and maintained as a state institution for the reclamation of young men who have been in difficulty with the courts of the state.

WOMAN ENDS LIFE

BURBANK, Calif., Nov. 22.—(UP)—

While other members of the family were making merry at a party, Mrs. Mary V. La Bee, 65, went to her bedroom and committed suicide last night.

The aged woman drank chloroform, placed a cloth saturated with it over her face and then put her head beneath a blanket under which she had placed a hose conveying gas from a nearby jet.

Los Angeles Men Seeking Local Firms

Outside Capital May Gain Entire Control In Santa Ana

WITH NEGOTIATIONS under way for acquisition of the Home Mutual Building and Loan association and the Santa Ana Building and Loan association by Los Angeles interests, the possibility of all of the city's building and loan concerns being owned and controlled by outside capital loomed today.

While no definite announcement has been made of the sale of the Home Mutual Building and Loan association to the Fidelity Savings and Loan association, of Los Angeles, it was reported today in financial circles that the deal has been closed and that the present management accepted a rather attractive offer for the holdings, quoted at $225 a share.

Reports were current here today that the North American Building and Loan company, of Los Angeles, is in negotiations with the Santa Ana Building and Loan association for the acquisition of the latter's holdings.

While no confirmation could be obtained of the reported sale, C. S. Crookshank, president of the local institution being out of town, it was practically admitted at the office that negotiations were under way. It is understood that the Santa Ana Building and Loan association was offered $175 a share for its holdings, which is $75 a share above par.

The attractive offers submitted for the two Santa Ana concerns, it was stated, are not only complimentary of the high business ratings of the same, reflecting favorably upon the managements, but is another indication that Los Angeles capital is attracted by the wealth and prosperity of Orange county and resultant opportunities for profitable investments.

Air travel on scheduled lines out of Los Angeles, both to the east and north, was abandoned this morning as the winds reached gale proportions.

Several boats were washed ashore at San Pedro by mountainous seas churned up by winds which, at times, blew at the rate of 60 miles per hour. Shipping schedules were disrupted, and one line was forced to hold in port its outbound vessels.

Richard W. Lyon, of Huntington Park, and Mrs. J. W. Morrison, Nuevo, Riverside county, were killed when two automobiles collided head on near Wineville as the drivers crept through a heavy sandstorm which obliterated the road.

Charles Davis, motorcycle dispatcher rider for the forest service, was instantly killed when, rushing to the scene of the Waterman canyon fire, he was struck by an automobile.

DAM FRAUD CHARGED IN $2,661,255 SUIT

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 21.—(UP)—

Charges that county supervisors, contractors and the chief engineer of the flood control district had conspired to defraud taxpayers in the construction of the $25,000,000 San Gabriel dam were made in a suit on file in superior court today.

The dam was abandoned after several million dollars had been spent because of geological structure faults, C. A. Shorb, a taxpayer, said in filing the suit. Shorb demands that $2,661,255 be assertedly paid the contractors for excavations never made and for allegedly excessive profits be returned to the county.

WORKERS BATTLE SNOWDRIFTS SEEKING VICTIMS OF STORM

DENVER, Colo., Nov. 22.—(UP)—

Mountainous snowdrifts today impeded the progress of searchers for three persons who became lost in a blizzard which swept virtually the entire western United States, leaving death, destruction and suffering in its wake.

The storm, coming from the north, took a toll of three lives, hundreds of head of livestock, untold property damage, many injured in accidents caused by icy streets and pavements, and piled up snow to the eaves of homes in southwestern Colorado.

Thed said: Howard Rhodes, 50, rancher, whose body was found beside a snow obscured road near Lamar, Colo. A mile away searchers found his saddle horse dead in a ditch.

John Evans, 50, rancher, who defied the blinding snow on his ranch in the Black Forest northeast of Colorado Springs to attend his cattle. His body was found under three feet of snow a short distance from his home.

Rus Miner, 50, Des Moines, N. M., who perished in a snow-drift attempting to reach Mount Dora, N. M. He had left his stalled automobile to get aid for a companion.

Asks Citizens Not To Set Outdoor Fires

A request that all citizens refrain from building fires outside their homes during the present wind storm was made by John Luxembourgier chief of the fire department today.

The fire hazard at a time like this, when the strongest wind of the year is blowing across the city, is extremely apparent and a small fire at this time might, with the aid of the wind, prove the city's most disastrous blaze.

Firemen are patrolling the streets after being called out six times during the night to extinguish small blazes.

Oil derricks Blown Down, Trees Uprooted, Roads Blocked By Wreckage

MOTORIST IS INJURED

Oranges Blown From Trees But Those Left Probably Are Not Burned

A TERRIFIC desert wind which has blown across the county since 1 o'clock this morning and which reached a velocity of 60 miles an hour at times, has caused a widespread damage throughout Santa Ana and at various points all over the county.

Old residents of the city stated they could not remember any time in the past that the wind reached such cyclonic proportions and the damage done is the greatest in the past score of years.

Hundreds of trees all over the county were blown down, electric signs were toppled over, several grass fires got from under control, plate glass windows were blown out and several roads blocked. In the oil fields, derricks were blown over, oil was spilled, and the continuance of the wind threatens scores of other derricks and oil field equipment.

Outstanding items of storm damage are listed below:

Six derricks were down in the Huntington Beach oil fields.

Two oil derricks were down at Atwood.

All telephone lines were down between Santa Ana and Olive and Yorba Linda.

Three hundred telephones were not in commission today in Santa Ana.

Hundreds of trees were blown down, more than 100 in Huntington Beach.

Several grass fires aided by the winds are still burning.

There was no way to determine the amount of damage done to the citrus groves of the county today. That the gale undoubtedly will cost the growers thousands of dollars was the consensus of opinion, but it is not believed that the oranges that were left on the trees

500 Expected For Business Confidence Banquet

SERVICE CLUBS OF SANTA ANA BACK OF PLAN

Plans for a huge banquet to be staged at the home of the Santa Ana American Legion on the night of December 4, at which time Business Confidence month, sponsored by the Santa Ana Lions club, will be started, were announced today by Norman Sprowl, Fox theater manager here, and a Lions club committee which has charge of the details of the campaign.

The purpose of the campaign is to stimulate business among local merchants and the banquet will have many unique features, one particularly, which is sure, according to Sprowl, to make the campaign well worth the effort.

Approximately 500 business men of the city are expected to attend the banquet and all members of service clubs throughout the city are asked to make reservations for the dinner through their club secretaries. The secretaries will be provided with tickets for the affair.

Several well known local speakers will outline the purpose of Business Confidence month, which will extend throughout the pre-holiday season. The names of the speakers will be announced at the first of next week.

All service clubs in the city are co-operating with the Lions club in the enterprise and the dinner.

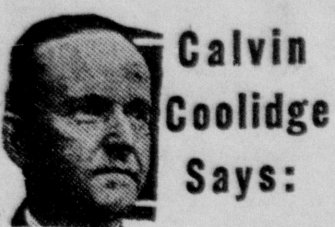

Letters from the Santa Ana Breakfast club and the Santa Ana Business and Professional Women's club have been received by the Lions club committee, while favorable action is reported from the Twenty-Third club, the Santa Ana Kiwanis club and the Santa Ana Exchange club.

Committees from the Lions club are to meet with the Kiwanians, the Santa Ana Realty board and other local clubs next week to outline plans for Business Confidence month.

Aside from the regular features of the banquet, the Fox West Coast theaters of Santa Ana will give several acts of vaudeville as entertainment, Sprowl announced. Letters from the Santa Ana Breakfast club and the Business and Professional Women's club to E. M. Sundquist, secretary of the Lions club, follow:

"In response to your communication of the 15th inst., to the president of the Breakfast club, B. Z. McKinney, I am instructed to communicate to you the action of the Breakfast club this morning.

Calvin Coolidge Says:

By CALVIN COOLIDGE

Former President of the United States

NORTHAMPTON, Mass., Nov. 22.—Nearly every day the current news reports some item that indicates how great this country is and how great are its resources. We are sometimes criticized for putting too much emphasis on size. It is true that quality is often more important than quantity. But greatness in nearly every direction indicates power, and power is capacity for making progress and doing good.

Recently it was announced that the banks were about to pay $632,000,000 to the Christmas clubs which make regular savings deposits during the year in order to provide funds for the needs of the holiday season. This great sum is more impressive because it is so representative of the earnings and savings of the people. It would pay many times over the national debt at the end of the revolutionary war.

The beneficial effect that will be secured from putting a large proportion of this money into circulation is important. It will be used for cash purposes. If its owners will buy merchandise currently produced which in the future will require replacement the present needs of business and of the unemployed will be best served. The reserve power of the people, of which this is a good example, always helps to relieve any situation.

I endorse your proposition to make the month of December "A Business Confidence month." This is a timely sentiment and we are 100 per cent with you.

"Very sincerely yours,

"Santa Ana Breakfast Club,"

"F. R. Schweitzer, Secretary,"

"The Business and Professional Women's club feels that this movement of the Lions club committee to stimulate the shop in Santa Ana spirit during the coming holiday season, is not only timely, but most worth while, and is glad to do its bit, in co-operating with the various service clubs, in promoting December as Business Confidence month.

"Sincerely,

"Business and Professional Women's Club,"

"Blanche Small Brown, Secretary."

MUCH DAMAGE REPORTED IN ENTIRE AREA

At Atwood an oil derrick was blown over and a water rig crashed across the Santa Fe tracks there. Hurried work on the part of railroad employees and volunteers cleared the tracks. Fear that a number of other derricks in the Atwood field would topple over was felt.

At Huntington Beach six oil derricks were blown down. One derrick fell across an oil tank of the Marion Oil company, crushing it and causing some 500 gallons of oil to flow down the street. A number of plate glass windows were blown out and approximately 100 trees were blown down. It was reported.

Residents at Huntington Beach declared the wind there was the strongest in the history of the city.

Approximately 150 roofs were damaged by the wind in Huntington Beach. An aviary located at 812 Frankfort street in Huntington Beach was blown down and a number of love birds got away. Street signs and awnings were scattered throughout the business section of the city.

A number of trees which were uprooted by the storm were on the high school property at Huntington Beach.

Reports from Orange were to the effect that approximately 100 trees were down there. A fire broke out at 2:30 a. m. in Orange on a vacant lot in the 1000 block on West Palm street and the flames gained considerable headway before the fire department was called.

Three fires were reported in Santa Ana during the early morning. Two were trash fires no damage was done, and the third was between East Chestnut streets and the Santa Fe tracks, which was extinguished by the fire department after a battle. A number of box cars were endangered by the flames, which threatened to break away from the fighters on numerous occasions.

A grass fire broke out one and a half miles east of the Delhi and Newport Beach roads in a field on the Irvine ranch and was burning briskly this afternoon with a number of persons working in it attempting to keep it under control. No damage was reported from it at noon today.

The skeet traps at the Santa Ana Skeet club, located on West First street, were blown down sometime during the night. It was reported. They were being repaired this morning.

Operations at the Midway City dairy were hindered when the electricity was cut off. All milking is done by electricity and there was a water shortage there due to an electric pump being out of commission.

Serious damage was done at the Central Memorial park in the Midway City area. It was reported that there was not a tree left standing in the cemetery and all trees along the streets were blown down.

A number of houses were unroofed in Midway City and the sun porch at the home of C. A. Whitte was torn away from the building. Half of the roof on the home of C. R. Hart was destroyed.

A large water tank at the home of A. D. Skinner toppled over last night, barely missing the home and crashed to pieces.

A crew of men worked throughout the night at the Midway City Lumber company yard to keep the wind from blowing away materials.

The damage in Santa Ana was not as heavy as reported in other sections of the county, although police officers were called out a score or more times when trees fell across the streets, signs were blown down and window broken.

The street department had all available equipment in service today, and an extra crew of men was at work clearing up the debris throughout the city.

A big steel girder, being used in the construction of the new Masonic home at Fifth and Sycamore streets, was blown over and crashed into the street. The temporary sidewalk construction around the building operations was blown over and scattered about the streets.

A huge tree on the Fourth and Ross street golf course was blown down and scattered over the course.

High voltage lines were reported down in the street at Sixth and Olive streets and at Second

The Rocky Mountain states bore the brunt of the blizzard's fury. Some towns in Colorado and Wyoming dug out today from under the heaviest pre-Thanksgiving snowfall in western bureau history. Rail, air and automobile traffic slowly returned to normal.

While clearing skies gave promise of relief from winter's first major assault on the west, parties searched for two men and a boy feared victims of the storm. They fought against drifts five to seven feet retarding their progress.

A widespread search was in progress for P. H. Strong, 35, rural mail carrier, who was caught in the blizzard near Lamar, in southeastern Colorado.

In New Mexico James Tilford, 36, Denver, last seen 15 miles from Raton, where he became separated from companions on a deer hunting expedition, still was missing.

Snow plows were used near La Junta where the snow was banked to the roofs of small dwellings, in an attempt to locate a 13-year-old Japanese boy who failed to reach and Spurgeon streets at 1:55 a. m. today.

The front plate glass window of the Pennant cafe on North Main street was blown out, as was a plate glass window in the Harry Riley automobile agency at 500 South Main street.

The police department received a call at 2:45 a. m. that trees were blocking the streets in the 700 block on South Main street; in the 300 block on Orange avenue; at Santa Ana boulevard and North Broadway and at First and Olive streets.

Windows were blown out at the Jersey Lunch room on North Main street and at the Montgomery Ward company store at Second and Broadway.

At 4:20 a. m., an electric wire pole was blown down at Fifth and Broadway and at 4:50 a. m., a big window in the Buick garage at Fifth and Bush street was blown out.

Part of the roof of the Grand Central market was blown off some time during the night, while roof-damaging companies in the city reported damage to roofs here during the storm was the heaviest that they could remember.

A number of cement blocks were blown across the San Diego highway near the Irvine overhead bridge and traffic was held up for some during the night.

A tree which fell across the road at Tustin and Laguna Beach avenues completely blocked traffic at this point and cars were being detoured around it. A number of trees were reported down in the Tustin high school property.

Information from Santa Ana Gardens was to the effect that several windows were blown out and several trees were down. A fire which broke out there early this morning was quickly extinguished.

A fallen tree completely blocked Seventeenth street between Bush and Main street this morning, while a fence was blown down at Eighteenth and Bush streets.

100 SONS AND FATHERS MEET FOR Y. DINNER

Fathers and sons to the number of more than 100 had a wonderful time together last night at the Y. M. C. A., the occasion being the annual dinner of dads and lads.

A delightful dinner was served, with the added attraction of a group of Girl Reserves aiding in waiting on the tables, which were decorated in pleasing style for the occasion.

Frank Humphrey acted as toastmaster for the evening, presenting a program of wide variety and unusual interest.

The welcome of the dads was voiced by George Munro, who gave an eloquent tribute to the fathers, and urged the importance of close friendship between the boy and the man.

Maurice Phillips was heard in two songs, Cadman's "The Builder," and the always popular "Never Go to Sea on a Friday."

Dr. George A. Warner talked on the "Worlds in Which a Boy Lives." A boy, he said, lives in a world of action, a world of progress, a world of ideals. In his work and his play he gets the training that fits him for the work and the game of life. Many a time he learns more by losing a game than by winning it. The discipline of defeat is one of the best things a boy can have. And play is one of his essentials.

"The boy without a playground," said the speaker, "is often the father to the man without a job."

The closing feature of the evening's program was half an hour of magic offered by D. O. Rice and his son, Robert. Both father and son showed great facility in their manipulations to prove that the hand is quicker than the eye, and the combination of man and boy working together on their favorite hobby illustrated in a graphic manner much that had been said by the speakers as to team work and co-operation between father and son.

The event was one of the successful features in the program of Y. M. C. A. work for boys being presented during the season under the direction of other committees and the secretary for boys' work, D. H. Tibbals.

WINSLOW, Ariz., Nov. 22. (UP)—A new snow storm swept across the mountains 40 miles south of here today and ended hopes of rescue parties that J. D. Bird, 25-year-old hunter missing more than a week, would be found alive.

The snows swept toward Flagstaff and hampered National Guardsmen and volunteers who have scoured the heavily wooded areas in a vain search for the lost man.

As the cold increased, it became evident that Bird had little chance to survive the storms that raged over the district, and the posses centered their efforts on finding his body.

E. G. Miller, heading a party of forest rangers, reached Flagstaff last night with the report that all possible shelter sites had been explored without success. It was believed at first Bird had found refuge in some mountain cabin or shelter.

The Waterman canyon blaze, which broke out shortly after midnight when a power-line was blown down, continued its sweep into the timbered regions of the San Bernardino mountains in the direction of Lake Arrowhead. Two hundred and fifty experienced fire-fighters augmented by more than 800 volunteers, including 150 Indian youths from the Sherman school, battled it under the direction of Forest Supervisor J. E. Elliott. A permanent camp was established near the Arrowhead Hot Springs hotel from which base the fire-fighting was directed.

With more than 1500 acres already blackened, Elliott declared that there was little hope of controlling the flames until the wind subsided.

The Millard canyon blaze, which was being fought by a crew of one hundred men under Forest Supervisor William V. Mendenhall, broke out near the foot of Mt. Lowe just before daybreak, and had burned over more than 100 acres by noon.

City firemen, aided by construction crews, battled for two hours to quell a blaze which broke out in Elysian park, a few miles distant from the Los Angeles city hall, and swept over 40 acres of the park. A sudden change in the wind carried the flames around a cache of dynamite in the center of the park. The dynamite was owned by the construction company now boring the Figueroa street tunnel.

More than 20 minor brush and grass fires were burning at one time in Los Angeles county, the county forestry department reported as its firemen rushed madly from one scene to another.

bringing the direction of flight of the machine into line with the camera's direction.

Tihani believes that by virtue of the fact his device has no undercarriage and carries no crew it could be built to fly faster than any existing aircraft, and once it was sighted and launched at an enemy airplane the latter's destruction would be inevitable. It could either be rammed, and an explosive fired by contact, or electrical apparatus operated by the camera could be arranged to fire the explosive as the machines approached within a few feet of the enemy's craft.

The fundamental principle at work in the camera, says Tihani, could however be turned to peacetime as well as war time activities, and could be applied to prevent collisions between aircraft and between ships at sea.

DEATHS

A WORD OF COMFORT

When you are in danger you turn instinctively to what looks like safety; when you are ill you seek a physician; when your ignorance disturbs you, you look for a teacher. When your heart aches you run to someone in whose love you trust.

The fact that you are impelled in your hour of sorrow to seek stumblingly, blunderingly, but spontaneously for God, is evidence that you know in your heart of hearts that He loves you.

Give full rein to that confidence and the cravings of your heart will be satisfied.

SHERIDAN—Mrs. Kathleen C. Sheridan, aged 35 years, wife of George B. Sheridan, of 443 South Birch street, passed away, November 20, 1930. She leaves an infant daughter, five days of age; her husband and two cousins, Mrs. May Harmon and Mrs. Ella May Cummings, both of Santa Ana. Services are to be held from the Winchester funeral home, Monday, November 24, at 10 a. m., the Rev. W. S. Buchanan, pastor of the First Christian church officiating. Interment in Fairview cemetery.

BIRD—At 2517 So. Main St., Nov. 21st, 1930, Marshall E. Bird, age 62 years. He is survived by his wife, Bertha E. Bird and one brother, Horace Bird of New Bedford, Mass. Announcement of funeral later by Harrell and Brown, 116 W. Seventeenth St.

MODEL PLANE CLUB FORMED IN SANTA ANA

Santa Ana boys are to have an opportunity to enroll in the American Model Aircraft and Glider club, through a local chapter which is being formed by Y. M. C. A. in co-operation with the national headquarters of the organization of Iowa City, Iowa. This is a national organization, non-profit in its character, formed for the purpose of distributing information on aviation, and furnishing plans and materials to the youth of America who are interested in studying aeronautics by building and flying models of various types, and in building and flying gliders.

William H. Johnston, national organizer for the clubs, has spent several days in the city, presenting the matter to local men who are interested in boys and in aviation, and the result has been the formation of a board of sponsors who have taken the initiative in providing for the work to be started here.

The sponsors are J. A. Cranston, superintendent of schools, B. H. Rowley, supervisors of manual training; Corral Nisewanger, in charge of manual training at Julia Lathrop junior high school, A. G. Green, president of the Knights of the Round Table, Clyde L. Jenkins, president of the Exchange club, George Walker, Boy Scout executive; Howard Bear, pilot, Sid Holland, pilot, D. H. Tibbels, boys' secretary of the Y. M. C. A., and Hill and Carden, whose store is the headquarters for distribution of the model materials. This board of sponsors will generally supervise the work of the club, and will direct the contests which are a regular part of its program.

The membership materials are on hand and may be secured by any boy or girl interested, for the club is open to girls as well as to boys. On registering is eligible to secure the beginner's "kit" for building his first model. This kit contains the complete materials and instructions for building a real flying model with 18-inch wing spread, landing gear, and everything just like a real plane. When assembled, it makes the "Air King," which has a flying range up to three minutes.

As soon as a number of the members have completed their first models, an "air meet" will be arranged by the club, and prizes will be awarded for the best constructed models, and for the best flying planes.

Standing on the earth's surface at tide level, a person has a visual range of about three miles unless the presence of mountains or other masses permits a longer view. The range increases greatly, however, with increased altitude, being about 132 miles at 10,000 feet.

RIISING TAXES FIRST PRIZE IS HIT BY REALTY AWARDED HIGH BOARD SPEAKER SCHOOL PAPER

Declaring that increased taxation was one of the things that was hurting real estate worse than anything else and that citizens would have to change the attitude of public officials toward spending money and instill a spirit of economy in boards of education, municipal and county governments, J. Francis Porter, of Los Angeles, a member of the taxation committee of the California Real Estate association, spoke before the Santa Ana Realty board at Ketter's cafe yesterday.

"Confiscatory taxes are ruining real estate," the speaker asserted. "It is a problem that is nationwide. Investigation reveals that 87 per cent of all county and district taxes are being paid by real estate. In California there is a constantly increasing volume of tax sales. In 1920 there were 57,046 tax sales and in 1927 the figure had increased to 135,896."

It was announced during the meeting recently organized appraisal class would hold its first session next Monday at 7 p. m. in room 205 of the junior college. The election of officers of the board is to be held on December 5, with an inaugural on December 18, it was stated by Herb Alleman, president of the board.

A report was made on a state committee survey, by W. F. Croddy, secretary of the local board, showing that it was recommended that assessments in Orange county be limited to $30.00 per $100 of true value.

PROGRAM ENJOYED BY PHOTOGRAPHERS

Photographers from all parts of the county, including a delegation from Long Beach, attended the fall meeting of the Photographers' association held last night at the Orient cafe, located on the Anaheim-Santa Ana state highway. President Edward W. Cochems of Santa Ana, presiding.

The program was preceded by a brief business session devoted to the reading of reports bearing upon membership and matters affecting the administration of the organization. It also was announced that on account of the rush of business incidental to the approaching holiday season, there would be no meeting next month, and that a special meeting would be called early in January by the president.

Earl S. Morrow, district manager of the Southern California Telephone company, gave an interesting talk on the history of early photography.

Appearing on the entertainment program were Arthur Cannon, Santa Ana musician; Mrs. Melba Woods, singer; Miss Gertrude Wyman, and pupils of Miss Gertrude Stebbins, dancing teacher.

JUDGE GRANTS FIVE DIVORCES. ANNULS ONE

Five divorce decrees were granted yesterday following hearings in superior court. One other marriage was dissolved through granting a decree of annulment.

Judge G. K. Scovel granted interlocutory decrees to two wives and one husband after hearing evidence presented before him. Grace E. Morch won her decree from Peter J. Morch on a charge of desertion. They were married in 1913 and separated in 1927. The second decree went to Bernice E. Wangler from Phillip E. Wangler on a charge of extreme cruelty. They were married in 1920 and separated this year. Cruel and inhuman treatment was the charge which won a decree for Carl J. Trout from Gladys V. Trout. They were married June 1, 1930, and separated just three weeks later.

One of the decrees granted by Judge James L. Allen went to Neda Roeschlaub from Harry M. Roeschlaub on a charge of desertion and failure to provide. She also won the custody of the children and an order for the defendant to pay $50 per month for support. The other divorce decree in this department went to Wenl Cecilia Mendez from Carlota A. Mendez on a charge of cruelty.

The decree of annulment was awarded by Judge Allen to Joe Bishop from Marie Bishop. The plaintiff asserted that on misinformation obtained prior to the marriage by the father of the defendant he was forced to marry under the threat of criminal prosecution.

"Gee, it's good"

• said LUCIENNE, age 2½ years

• You mothers—who find it hard to make youngsters take cod-liver oil—listen to this:

"My two little ones raise an awful fuss when I try to give them plain cod-liver oil. They hate it," Mrs. Alice Burgess told us when we called at her home at 23 Curtis Street, Bloomfield, N. J.

Then we asked her youngsters, one of whom is pictured above, to try Scott's Emulsion of Cod-Liver Oil. They each took a spoonful...

"Gee, it's good," said Warren.

"I like it," smiled Lucienne.

Pleasanter to take—but that isn't all!

Pale, thin, run-down children—they need cod-liver oil. Give it to them the pleasantest way—give them Scott's Emulsion.

Scott's Emulsion hasn't that strong "fishy" taste. It doesn't upset even delicate stomachs. It brings you purest, Norwegian cod-liver oil in its pleasantest form—a perfect emulsion. Easier to take—easier to digest. You get more good out of Scott's Emulsion and you feel the benefits quicker.

Scott's Emulsion is rich in vitamin A, the disease-resisting vitamin. It is rich in vitamin D, the sunshine vitamin that prevents rickets. It also contains vital mineral elements that aid in forming sound bones and teeth.

This gives Scott's Emulsion a special advantage for growing children, infants, nursing and expectant mothers. Get Scott's Emulsion of Cod-Liver Oil to-day, at your druggist's. Watch cheeks grow rosy. See youngsters gain new weight and pep.

The Goldfinch

By Miss Carrie Jacobs

Color These Goldfinches

Name Address Age School

INSTRUCTIONS FOR COLORING

This picture of the Goldfinch isn't as hard to color as one would think. The color combination is green, yellow and red. Green is the predominant color as the picture represents spring time when the grass, flowers, etc., are fresh and green.

The birds are a bright yellow with dark brownish gray wings, and tail feathers. The bird nearest the bottom of the picture is the male bird and he should be the brightest yellow with a dark spot on the top of his head, the other one is the female, whose color is not so bright and she has no dark on her head.

The grass in the foreground and background will be various shades of green and yellow, the leaves of the dandelions should be green shaded with yellow. The blossoms will be yellow with orange centers and the stems should be light green, the seed balls are white with a brown and white center. The dandelion bud on the left should be light green with a touch of yellow on the tip. This will make a very pretty picture if you will use a little care and do not try to color it too quickly.

Among the best known and best loved of our birds we must count the goldfinch. Whether you call it wild canary, lettuce bird or thistle bird, you love it and its sweet calls and song. It lives all over this country, but the ones in the west are not just like those here in the east.

The father bird, mother bird and young ones look very much alike during the winter, but along about April the father bird changes his suit for a bright yellow one, with black wings and tail, and a little white on them, and a black cap pulled down over his eyes. In winter they are all a brownish green above and light beneath with black tails and wings with the white on them. The father bird has real black wings and the others dusky black ones. The father bird takes off his cap in winter instead of putting one on as you would expect him to do.

Although some goldfinches can be found any time of the year, many go south, and the time for their return is when the first dandelion seed is ripe. No one is able to tell how much dandelion and thistle seed these birds eat. Just think how many more dandelion plants we would have to cut out of our lawns, and how many more thistle, mullein and wild sunflower plants the farmer would have to kill if it were not for these little bunches of sunshine. That is just what they look like and that is just what their cheerful songs and twitterings make you think of.

They even sing when they fly. They go in great waves, rising and falling and as they go, down they call, "Per-chick-o-ree! Per-chick-o-ree!" Some one says it sounds as if they were sewing music in the air.

They wait until the other birds have built their nests before they ever think of beginning. There seems to be only one reason for it that anyone has been able to even guess at. They like to find a place where several branches come out of a larger branch together. The outer part of the nest is made of fine grass or strong strips of weed bark woven around all the little branches, holding the nest tight to all of them. You could not take it out without breaking it all to pieces. This solidly woven nest is lined with a cushion of soft plant cotton or down, taken mostly from the thistle seeds. If sheep are pastured around briar bushes near where they live, they gather some of the wool that the briars have taken from the sheep, and here is where the guess comes in. Does the goldfinch wait to build its nest until it can get thistle down? The eggs are bluish white.

After the young are large enough to find food for themselves, these birds can be seen in little flocks, enjoying life together as happy as birds can be. The question has been asked, "Is the goldfinch happy because it has such a bright suit to wear, or were the bright clothes given to it to show that it is happy?"

75 ATTRACTED TO BARBECUE OF LAND OWNERS

Seventy-five land owners of Talbert and their families were present Thursday evening at the first annual meeting of the Fountain Valley Land Owners' association, when a barbecue was held in connection with the business meeting and election of officers.

The barbecue, which was held at 6 o'clock in the school grounds, was in charge of Harry Fulton, Walter Giesler, Rene Callena, S. E. Talbert and Robert Harper.

At the close of the repast, which was served at tables set in the school building, John Mitchell, supervisor of this district, spoke on the river project, controlling of flood waters and also the state park, all three subjects being of vital interest to the local community and association members.

A business meeting followed, at which the election of officers resulted in the re-electing of L. J. Bushard as president; Harry Fulton as treasurer; and Miss Louise Wardlaw as secretary.

As the Fountain Valley Land Owners' association is composed entirely of land owners of the Talbert community who the past 13 months have held their regular monthly meetings for the purpose of planning for the welfare and betterment of any project which may be before the people, several subjects were taken up at Thursday evening's meeting, among which was the proposed tilling of more of the Talbert drainage district's canals and of general construction work in the district.

It was decided to hold association meetings as in the past, on the third Thursday evening of each month and all land owners are urged to attend them. The land owners vote on propositions taken up by the organization allows one vote for each acre of land owned.

Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. Louis Bushard and family, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Fulton and family, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Giesler and family, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Giesler and family, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Giesler and family, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Wardlaw and family, Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Talbert, the Rev. and Mrs. Laird, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Preston, Mr. and Mrs. P. A. Isenor and family, Mr. and Mrs. M. C. Hoeptner and family, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Gardner and family, Dr. Castle, Mr. and Mrs. B. L. Stuart, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Talbert, Mr. and Mrs. George Bushard, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Harper and family, John Pope, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Pope and family.

Irons used to hold prisoners in Venezuela weigh about 50 pounds and consist of anklets containing two eyes each which are riveted to an iron bar with large ends. The prisoner is able to stand or sit, but is unable to walk.

STUDENTS ARE TO HEAR NOTED EXPLORER TALK

Because of the educational value of the lecture, "Flying the Ends of the Earth," by Captain Sir Hubert Wilkins, explorer, scientist and author, to be presented in Polytechnic high school auditorium next Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock, Santa Ana Ebells society, responsible for bringing the noted explorer to this city, has set an extremely low price on tickets for school pupils of the city. General admission for non-Ebells members will not tax the pocketbook of anyone desiring to hear the lecture and see the remarkable pictures taken by Captain Wilkins himself, but even this price has been lowered for the benefit of students. Ebells members will find their membership cards all that is necessary to admit them to the auditorium.

It was pointed out today by Mrs. A. G. Flagg, of the program publicity committee, that there would be no seats reserved for the lecture, so that members who are at all particular as to where they sit in the high school auditorium, should be at the doors at an early hour, for a large crowd is anticipated.

In responding to a general demand that he appear on a limited lecture tour, telling of his experiences in the Arctic and Antarctic regions, Captain Wilkins makes his talk a personal narrative, relating his own actual experiences in many years of exploration. He has directed four different expeditions, and is at present perfecting his plan for the most daring of all, a submarine expedition under the Polar ice and snow, from Spitzbergen to Alaska.

It will be especially interesting to Ebells members and friends who recall the lecture engagement in this city of Vilhjalmur Stefansson, famous Arctic explorer and author, to learn that Sir Hubert spent over three years with Stefansson on the latter's greatest and most ambitious expedition, from 1913 to 1918. He later returned to the Arctic for another three year period of exploration, culminating in the historic airplane flight from Point Barrow in Alaska, to Spitzbergen, in April, 1928.

Between his last two seasons in the Antarctic, he was a passenger on the famous "round the world" flight of the Graf Zeppelin in 1929. Some of the things which have earned him the acclaim of the scientific world, especially that section of it interested in that part which airplanes play in exploring achievements, include the first trans-polar flight by plane; first landing of a plane on floating polar ice; first trip ashore unaided from a forced landing at sea a long distance from land; first plane flight in the Antarctic, and first discovery of new land from a plane.

NOTED EXPLORER

One of the world's greatest living explorers will speak here Monday afternoon when Captain Sir Hubert Wilkins appears with his moving pictures, relating his thrilling experiences in "Flying Both Ends of the Earth."

STATE P.-T. A. LEADERS MEET IN FULLERTON

With speakers emphasizing the need of co-operation between the parents and school officials in the matter of child health and recreation, more than 150 state and district officers, guests and members of the California Parent-Teachers association met in a state regional conference yesterday in the Fullerton Union High school auditorium, with Mrs. O. M. Robertson, seventh vice president of the state, presiding.

Following short addresses of welcome by Louis E. Plummer, representing the high school, Ray E. Green, elementary schools and Harry M. May, secretary of the Fullerton Chamber of Commerce, discussions of school problems were heard from state leaders in the organization.

Speakers at the morning session were Mrs. S. M. Purdie, Los Angeles, state chairman of finance and Mrs. Clarence E. Riley, South Pasadena, editor of the California Parent-Teacher magazine.

Necessity of using the finances of the association for the children's welfare and not for social occasions was emphasized by Mrs. Purdie who declared that a bottle of milk for an undernourished child is to be considered above the social obligations of the mothers and teachers.

"The Tools of Our Trade" was the subject of the address by Mrs. Riley who pointed out that the object of the Parent-Teacher magazine is to supply materials to all departments, to sponsor parent education programs and to do all within the power of the editors to place before parents some of the tools of their trade.

Announcement that Mrs. Nell Beisel, Santa Ana, junior past president of fourth district P.-T. A., has been appointed editor of "The Pulse" section of the magazine.

Following the luncheon which was held in the Fullerton high school cafeteria, an organ recital was presented in the auditorium by Miss Myrtle Klahn, instructor in the Fullerton union high school.

Other musical selections included numbers by the mothers' chorus of Santa Ana under the direction of Mrs. Florence Beeson, and community singing led by Mrs. Florence Lorbeer.

Speakers during the afternoon session included, Mrs. H. V. Henry, Glendale, state chairman of mental hygiene; Mrs. Florence Lorbeer, Riverside, state chairman of music; Mrs. H. C. Baldwin, Alhambra, state chairman of recreation, and Mrs. S. B. Morris, Pasadena, state chairman of drama.

Mrs. Henry, who spoke on the relation of the mental abilities of the child and the physical soundness, declared that unless the children in the school are in good health with plenty of the right kind of food, they cannot be expected to progress rapidly in their mental advancement.

She urged that more attention be given to the health of the students in an effort to assist them in building a sound mind.

"Wise Use of Leisure Time" was the subject of Mrs. Baldwin who pointed out that children often have no one to direct their leisure periods and consequently are led to find entertainment in any way which presents itself. She reported, however, that progress is being made in recreation programs for children which are sponsored by the school authorities as well as by the parents. The supervised playground is a big step in the direction of recreation for children.

Music in the home was stressed by Mrs. Lorbeer as a method of providing recreation and entertainment for the children.

Mrs. Morris told of the development of pageantry and drama in the schools and pointed out that the parents might assist in this phase of the school life of the children. She declared that often talents of children are discovered in drama which have never been shown in other lines of school work.

A round table discussion of school problems and the large part of the parents in school affairs was held during the afternoon with Mrs. J. V. Kealey, presiding. Questions were presented and discussed and solutions for problems were suggested.

Hostesses for the meeting yesterday were Mrs. Mary B. Robertson, president, fourth district; Mrs. G. N. Greer, president, Fullerton union high school association; Mrs. Claude Russell, president, Maple avenue, Fullerton; Mrs. Charles Newson, La Habra; Mrs. Oscar Carlson, president, Placentia; Mrs. F. M. Ensign, president, Grand avenue, Buena Park; Mrs. H. W. Beery, president, Buena Park; Mrs. J. L. Albee, president, Yorba Linda and Mrs. J. W. Smalley, president, Orangehorpe.

OLSEN PLAYERS WELL RECEIVED AT EBELL CLUB

By ELEANOR ELLIOTT

As old as the parental relationship itself, the eternal conflict between the generations has seldom been more dramatically portrayed than last night when the Moroni Olsen players, living up to their reputation for clear-cut, convincing work, presented St. John Ervine's powerful drama, "The Ship," in the Ebells auditorium, under the auspices of Santa Ana Ebells society.

"The Ship" is a study of that conflict as waged between the domineering, selfish man of large affairs, and his son, thoughtful, individual and with all youth's enthusiasm and dislike of interference. But there is another element in the play—that introduced by the mother of "John Thurlow," a woman who has attained the serenity and clear vision of age, without sacrificing the dreams and ideals of youth. So that "The Ship" might well be said to be also a study of character development.

"John Thurlow," the dominant character whose devotion to his ship building interests has dwarfed every other influence in his life, was portrayed flawlessly by Moroni Olsen, founder of this little group of craftsmen.

Janet Young, a co-founder with Olsen, brought to the part of "Old Mrs. Thurlow," a sympathetic understanding.

"Jack," the son, was made a very humanly lovable youth by Robert Young, who, like his elders, brought to his interpretation a naturalness that made him most charming and appealing in his desire to express himself rather than the lay figure which his father had in mind.

Indeed all the characters were given a naturalness and simplicity that were fully appreciated by the audience, and while "The Ship" might be said to be a two-character play in which all the other figures are merely background, yet the work of the cast as a whole was in keeping with that of the principals. Leora Thatcher as "Mrs. Thurlow," was exactly the self-effacing character that a Mrs. Thurlow would be in real life. Donna Earle as "Hester," a very lovely and appealing daughter, Joseph H. Williams as "George Norwood," her lover; Gordon Nelson as "Captain Cornelius," and Franklin Rasmussen as "Lane," the butler, completed a well-balanced and convincing cast.

Last night's audience was practically a capacity one, and indications are that tonight's performance will be presented to a packed auditorium, for the seat sale has been brisk, and the unreserved praise of the first night audience will undoubtedly serve to attract others who have perhaps waited to be assured of the value and interest of the production. They may rest assured that they are to see one of the strongest and best of the modern plays presented by a cast thoroughly capable of interpreting the ideas and ideals of even such a past master of the art of playwriting as St. John Ervine.

FORMER PLACENTIA YOUTH IS KILLED

Word of the death of Russell Stanbury, 19, former Placentia resident, at Chowchilla, from gunshot wounds, has been received here. Howard, and Orville Burns, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Burns, all of Placentia, was riding in a car at the time of the accident. FIREMEN REQUEST TOYS TO REPAIR

Members of the Santa Ana Fire department, who are acting as helpers for Santa Claus as the Christmas season approaches in repairing and rehabilitating toys for children, have completed enough to give at least 50 youngsters remembrances it was learned today.

Firemen are anxious to have more toys on which to work so that a liberal supply can be on hand when Christmas arrives. They are interested in having visitors call to see the work that is being done and bring additional toys that may be fixed up to gladden some child's heart on Christmas day.

The fire stations are located as follows: 414 Eastwood, 1322 North Sycamore street, 1314 West Third street, and 625 Cypress avenue. Persons who cannot deliver the toys to one of the fire stations may call the department and arrangements will be made to pick them up. Most of the completed toys are located at the Cypress avenue station.

THANKSGIVING TO BE CHURCH THEME

Those attending the special Thanksgiving service at the Four Square Gospel church tomorrow evening are asked to bring something for the poor and unemployed as a Thanksgiving offering. Food and clothing are particularly desired, according to the Rev. Wilfred C. Parham, pastor of the church.

An illustrated sermon, "Sowing and Reaping," will be a feature of the Thanksgiving service at this church, which is located at the corner of Fairview and Sycamore streets. Special music has been arranged for the service, and the feature of this part of the program will be Wayne Huffman's Hawaiians, an orchestra regularly heard from radio station KREG on Thursday evenings. The personnel of this group includes the leader Wayne Huffman, Art Wilson, Chuck Hill and Les Clark.

MINIATURE MARVEL LONDON—Thousands of miniature models were displayed at the recent Model Engineering Exhibition held here, one of the most interesting being a tiny merry-go-round. The model was perfect in every respect, having tiny horses and carriages and a tiny organ that played six tunes in typical fair-ground style.

What Following Christ Means

The International Uniform Sunday School Lesson for Nov. 23. What Following Christ Means. Mark 10:17-27.

BY WM. E. GILROY, D.D.
Editor of The Congregationalist

The story of the rich young man who came to Jesus seeking to know the true way of life is one of undiminished interest, that appeals alike both to rich and poor.

Why did the young man come to Jesus? Was he conscious of something lacking, in spite of all his sincerity in obeying the moral code? Or did he come with a certain spirit of pride, anticipating that Jesus would commend him for his virtues rather than find in him an example of the man who with all his goodness lacked the one most fundamental and essential thing?

Whatever the young man's motives, he was manifestly surprised and startled at the response of Jesus. If he had come with pride in himself, he went away crestfallen and sad. If he had come with a consciousness that there was really something lacking and with an honest purpose to know more concerning the way of life, he was appalled at the immensity of the sacrifice that Jesus demanded.

Riches Hinder Him

His immediate reaction was that of slumping back into his environment of wealth. His great possessions possessed him even more than he possessed them. With the alluring invitation to join the Master's company and go about with Him, he was confronted with this barrier of his wealth that turned him back from the supreme opportunity.

It would be interesting to speculate, if speculation were ever of much value, upon the character and destiny of the young man after this crucial episode in his life. If one were to judge by general experience, one could be almost certain that in this failure to make the crucial decision he lost much of the high morality that he had had before.

It is very seldom that a man comes up to the point of making a great decision, and when that decision has been made wrongly continues his life just upon the moral level where it has been before. Failure in a crisis creates a reaction of weakness and despondency. When a man has failed to make goodness the chief thing in his life, the standards of goodness inevitably are lowered in relation to all his outlook and action.

Conscience Is Powerful

The other alternative is that while the young man went away deeply sorrowful, unable to make that crucial decision in the moment of opportunity, the very depth of his sorrow indicated the persistency of the appeal of conscience.

He went away dissatisfied with himself, conscious that he was not measuring up to his opportunity, and conscious, also, of his weakness. On this view the allurements of all that he had lost followed him through the years, and he came ultimately to the place where he achieved the decision and the alliance with the Christ that he had failed to make at the first great opportunity.

Whether this occurred is, of course, a matter of speculation.

Some have professed to find some identification between this rich young man and Joseph of Arimathea, who, in a time of great danger, claimed the body of Jesus. But such an identification is in the realm of pleasant imagery.

Probably the one thing that it is necessary to point out is that the application of this lesson does not lie at all only in the realm of great wealth. It is not only great possessions that may become a barrier in the way of one's highest duty and opportunity. Smaller possessions, even prejudices and preferences, where we may have not possessions at all, may equally intervene between ourselves and the way of the highest Christian destiny.

Other Things Intervene

It is the thing, whatever it may be, in our lives that interferes with the freedom of the rule and bulwark of the Christ-spirit that constitutes the obstacle to true discipleship, and as long as that thing, whatever it may be, persists in our lives there will always be in our characters and in our services, no matter how high their outward aspect of morality, the one thing lacking.

The one thing that constitutes true discipleship of the Master is the placing of the claims and influences of his spirit supreme over all other interests and over all other motives. Only that constitutes the completeness of the Christian ideal of life.

Seal Beach Board Invited To Yule Pageant On Dec. 5

SEAL BEACH, Nov. 22.—An invitation from the Long Beach Chamber of Commerce to city officials of Seal Beach to attend the Christmas pageant to be presented on the evening of December 5 in front of the Breakers hotel in Long Beach was accepted by the city council at the regular session Thursday night.

In connection with the proposed appraisal of city property, Mayor Wilson stated that J. P. Transue has agreed to represent the Baylands Land company when a meeting for discussing the appraisal has been arranged between the two major land-owners and the city finance committee.

A request from the American Legion post at its stag party, which is scheduled for tomorrow night at the Captain's inn, be allowed to continue until 2 o'clock, was granted by the city council.

FIRE DAMAGES HOME

ATWOOD, Nov. 22.—A gasoline heating stove which flamed up through lack of air pressure caught fire to the draperies of the sun porch of the Dan Henry home on Jefferson road and caused considerable damage. Mrs. Henry carried the stove from the house, receiving burns on the hands and arms when the sleeves of her sweater caught fire. Neighbors extinguished the fire in the house before it had gained much headway.

The Church Invites You

THANKSGIVING

David Grayson says "Thanksgiving is the great holiday of common people who have worked all the year and now thank God humbly for good harvests. We are all celebrating the true good things, the simple blessings of the soil and the common life."

"Thanksgiving is the holiday of peace, the celebration of work and simple life—a true folk festival that speaks the poetry of the turn of the seasons, the beauty of the harvest, the ripe product of the year, and the deep, deep connection of all these things with God."

The Church is the house of praise and thanksgiving. Why not accept the invitation and COME TO CHURCH NEXT SUNDAY?

—D. Carl Yoder.

(Send church and Sunday school problems in question form to the church editor; question with answer will appear in a later issue.)
Do we take Thanksgiving day seriously enough? It is true that the President of the United States and governors of the states issue annual Thanksgiving day proclamations in which they make the pious gesture of urging all their people to assemble in their houses of worship and give thanks to God; however it is safe to conclude that there will be hundreds of thousands of folks attending football games where thousands will be in churches and cathedrals, and many more who will never dream of entering any place of worship.

The feeling of dependency on a Higher Power has grown feeble it seems, and the feeling of gratitude for anything to anybody has seemed to vanish. The more we have, the less grateful we become. All conveniences, luxuries, comforts are taken for granted and we have seemingly forgotten the sacrifices, energies, ambitions of those who have gone before and made all these things possible for the enrichment of our lives.

Our capacity for gratitude has become dormant and until we are aroused to a spirit of thankfulness, the Thanksgiving holiday will not be observed seriously enough.

A Nation's Thanksgiving

How thankful should we be that there is an increasingly Christian spirit in America! We should be thankful for the disposition to deplore injustices and unbrotherliness, and an increasing consciousness of an awakened conscience nationally.

We should be thankful as a nation for the encouraging prospects of peace among the nations.

We should be thankful for the unparalleled interest in Jesus Christ, a greater appreciation of His life and the sincere attempts to apply His teachings to all human relationships in this and other lands.

We should be thankful for the institution of the church, eager to serve the present day needs by emphasizing the value of spiritual things in our modern scientific machine age.

Finally, we should be thankful that our nation stands apart a day to give thanks as a national recognition of the goodness of God to his peoples everywhere.

THANKSGIVING
Let us express our thanks to God by helping our fellow men

Thanksgiving day is our annual time for saying grace at the table of eternal goodness and abundance.

It is quite fitting that a nation should set apart an annual day for the national giving of thanks. It is a public recognition of God as the Author of all prosperity. It is the erection of a memorial to the honor of him who has led us through another year.

The annual proclamations which call to the duty of thanksgiving are calculated to remind the people of their indebtedness to God, to stir in their minds and hearts emotions of gratitude and praise and to call out thanks and sincere worship which otherwise might not find expression.

But the most sincere expression of gratitude is that which takes the form of sharing our blessings with others. Thus do we warm our own board and put to shame mere empty words which without the spirit of helpfulness mean nothing.

Let us then as good citizens and believers in God, gratefully keep Thanksgiving day. Let households and friends gather about their firesides and well spread boards and let charity to the less fortunate brighten and commemorate the day, that it may be to us all a pleasant memory.

Placentia Wins La Habra Game

PLACENTIA, Nov. 22.—Playing against La Habra, the Placentia grammar school indoor ball team Thursday won the championship game of the Northern Orange County Grammar School league for this season, with a score of 6 to 5. The game was played at La Habra and that team scored four runs in the first inning.

For the first time this year the Placentia school has taken up football and the first game was played Wednesday on the home field against Olinda, with a score of 40 to 0 in favor of Placentia.

Our Pilgrim fathers received a cold welcome to the shores of this continent, for the Mayflower entered Plymouth harbor amid a blinding snow storm. Many were the privations of those early months. At one time there was only a pint of corn in the whole settlement and five grains constituted each one's share. Harvests failed in the fields, the game departed from the forests.

Starvation threatened the little band and consequently Governor Bradford appointed a day of fasting and prayer. Before the day arrived, however, a ship came into the harbor, bringing letters, food and medicine for the sick, seeds for a new sowing. What a dramatic deliverance!

So the day appointed for fasting was changed to a day of feasting and thanksgiving for God's benefits in preserving their lives. In these days of plenty and luxury, how seldom do we appreciate the sacrifices of those who broke ground and laid the cornerstone for the comforts we now enjoy.

NEWS FROM THE AUTOMOBILE WORLD

RECORD DRIVER FOR NASH SEES LATEST MODELS

KENOSHA, Wis., Nov. 22.—Three hundred, fifty-eight thousand miles of fast, accident-free driving over every conceivable sort of road, and under practically every operating condition known to motorists, is the enviable record piled up by Jack "Million" Graham, chief scout of the Chicago Motor club, in the four Nash cars he has employed as pathfinders for the famous Chicago club since March of 1921.

He dropped into Nash headquarters to inspect the four new series of Nash cars which have served as pathfinders for the automobile industry in blazing the way to a new deal for today's dollar since their introduction October 9, and outlined this, one of the most remarkable touring achievements on record, to Nash officials.

His first Nash pathfinder car began its service in March, 1921, and rolled up 95,000 miles of highway logging over roads which in these days would be considered practically impossible by the motoring millions who talk of the "monotony" of paved highways. His second Nash roadster, which took to the road in 1924 added 63,000 more miles to the perfect Nash record. His third Nash, delivered in December, 1926, rolled over 107,000 miles of highways for the benefit of tourists. His fourth Nash is a coupe delivered in April, 1929. It has traveled 73,000 miles to date and is "still going strong," in the words of the veteran pathfinder, who is preparing now for a 10,000-mile trip through the south to lay out the best winter trails for tourists south of the Mason and Dixon line.

"A car and its performance means more to me than it does to most people," Graham said. "It's a sort of day and night home to me and it has to keep going every minute to get over the roads which the club wants to know about."

FOREST FIRE RECORD HELD BY SALESMAN

A remarkable one-man record for putting out forest fires is held by a traveling salesman whose route covers ten counties in northern California, reports the United States forest service.

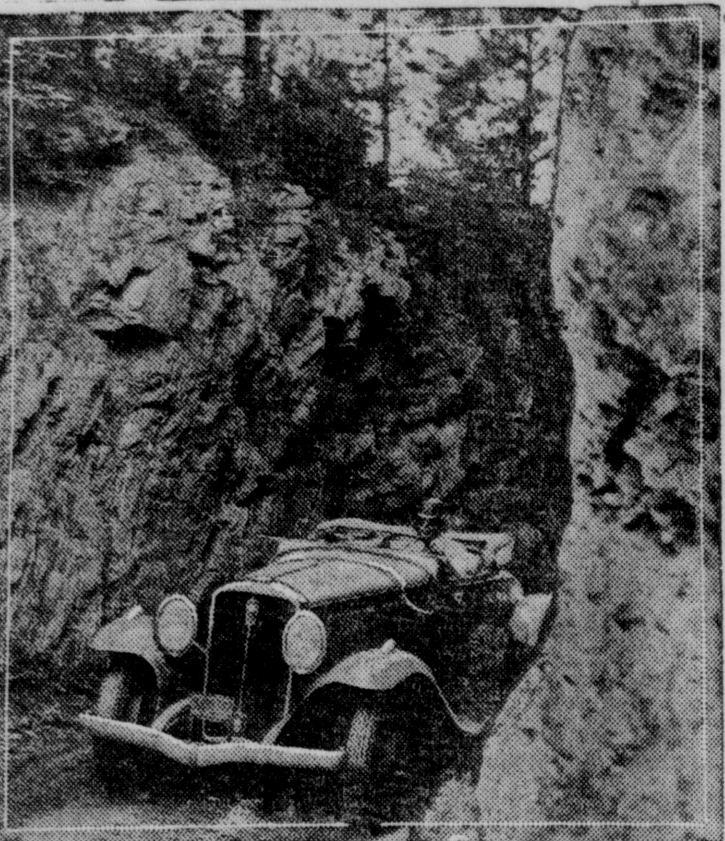

In gathering information on forest fire prevention, the Automobile Club of Southern California learned that this salesman, who has equipped himself with a back pump, shovel and ax, is credited with extinguishing 14 forest fires in 1927, seven in 1928 and four in 1930. He discovered the fires while on his regular business trips.

Olive avenue is under construction and closed from Burbank to the Dark canyon road, reports the touring bureau of the Automobile Club of Southern California.

MT. MITCHELL RECORD BROKEN

Mt. Mitchell, mightiest peak east of the Rockies, near Asheville, N. C., furnished the setting for a new record by Studebaker's President Eight roadster, holder of a long line of performance and endurance achievements. The twisting 21.8 miles to the summit of the famous mountain were traversed in the remarkable time of 45 minutes flat by the Studebaker, which was a free wheeling model and stock in every respect. The best previous time was 46 minutes, 15 seconds. In illustration at left, the President is shown skimming through a narrow pass of rock on its dash to the top of the mountain.

In addition to holding more official speed and endurance records than all other American cars combined, the Studebaker President holds many important mountain records, including Pikes Peak, Mt. Washington and Mt. Mansfield, Vt.

False Saving Seen In Use Of Old Tires

Many penny-wise motorists are continuing to drive tires until the tread is entirely gone and only a paper-thin layer of material covers the inner tube. A warning issued by the public safety department of the Automobile Club of Southern California states that it is false economy to save a little, when using a bad tire may run up huge bills for the undertaker or hospital service.

More than 400,000 persons are injured every year throughout the country in accidents resulting from tire failure, according to National Safety council records. A blow-out when a car is going at high speed will frequently swerve it into the ditch.

Don't count disaster by driving on unsafe tires, and always put the best tires in front, is the advice of the automobile club. When a rear tire blows, the chances of accident are not so great as a front tire blowout.

Construction work on La Canada-Verdugo road at Devil's Gate Dam has been completed and the new section of road opened to travel, according to a report received by the touring bureau of the Automobile Club of Southern California.

STATES BUYING POWER INTACT LEARNS DODGE

Returning from a two weeks' trip which included New York, Chicago, St. Louis, Kansas City, Dallas, Beaumont, Houston, Waco and Fort Worth, A. vanDerZee, general sales manager, and Walter S. Graves, truck sales manager, both of Dodge Brothers corporation, were emphatic in denying the wails of the depressionists and calamity howlers in an interview today.

"It is my belief," said Mr. vanDerZee, "that without exception from 85 to 90 per cent of the purchasing power of the country is intact. The 10 or 15 per cent that has been lost temporarily is represented by the reduction from normal employment which statistics show is only 10 per cent and is among factory workers mostly. The remainder of the loss in purchasing power comes from the curtailment of the incomes of a portion of the 90 per cent gainfully employed."

"This 10 to 15 per cent layer of reduction," continued Mr. vanDerZee, "is the ingredient in our economic upheaval that is fomenting our buyers strike and keeping our pot in fear of boiling. The business organization and economic fabric of our country still is filled with vitality, though partially dormant."

"Everywhere I encountered dealers and men in varied lines whose businesses are holding their own this year against the records of any of the prosperous years of the past. By analyzing the existing market, namely the 85 to 90 per cent that is intact, and working it instead of bemoaning the loss of the small layer represented by our reduced employment, the majority of business could be showing satisfactory returns instead of being in the dumps."

ENSENADA ROAD NOT GOOD AT PRESENT

The road from Tia Juana to Ensenada, Mexico, is rough and careful driving is necessary, advises the touring department of the National Automobile club.

"Human Ostrich" New Menace To Traffic In Fall

The "human ostrich" is the next seasonal traffic menace.

With the arrival of the rainy season, comes the "human ostrich"—the individual who buries his head in an umbrella and, impervious to traffic conditions, hurries across the street.

Motorists are urged by the Automobile Club of Southern California to keep a close watch for this menace so that no unnecessary "tail feathers" may be clipped by skidding cars.

Road Crews Work On Barstow Road

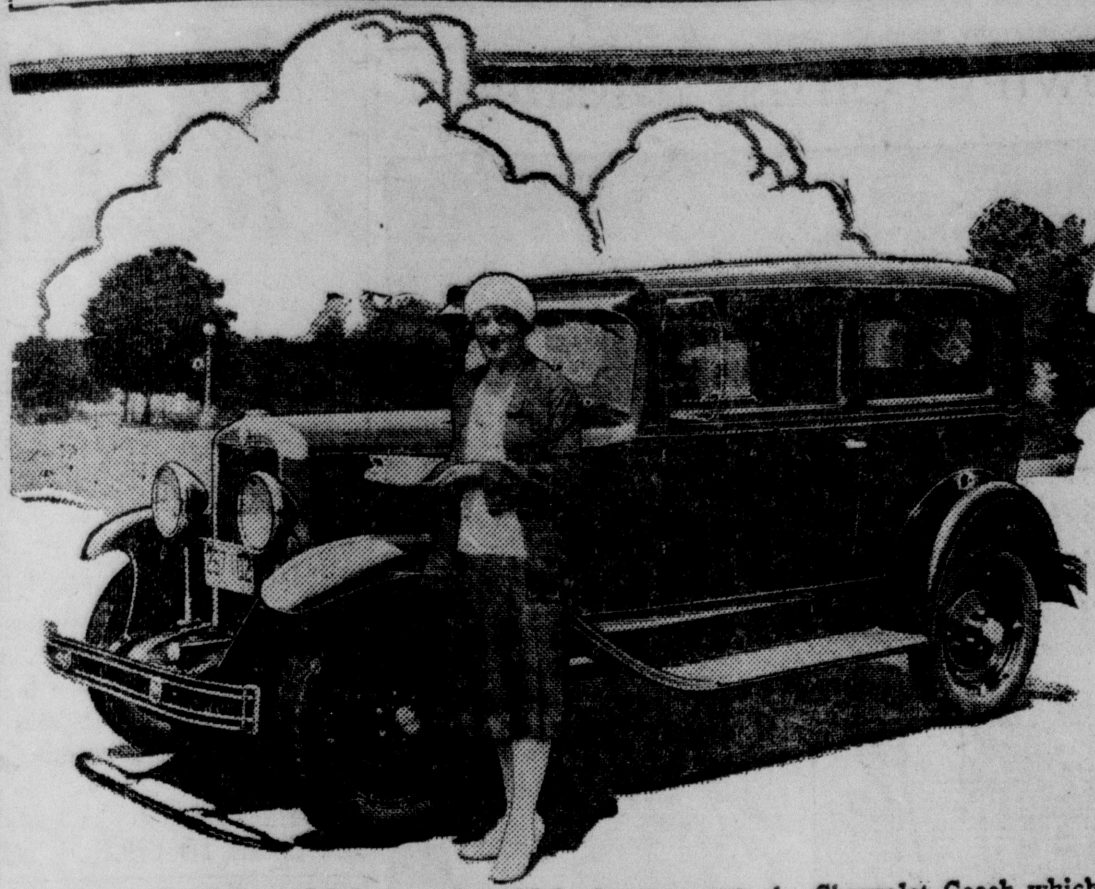

Road crews are at work at several places on Cajon Pass and U. S. Highway No. 66, from San Bernardino to Barstow, grading and oiling the sides of the highway, advises the touring department of the National Automobile club. A new bridge is also being constructed over Mojave river, near Oro Grande and a short detour is necessary which requires careful driving.

Sunset Blvd. Work Now Under Way

Sunset boulevard is under construction from Normandie avenue to Laurel Canyon road, a distance of 4 miles, and it is advisable to use other paved routes through Hollywood, advises the touring department of the National Automobile club. Excavating and paving operations are under way on half of this street, while the other half remains open for traffic.

A control is in effect on the San Dimas Canyon road on Saturdays, Sundays and holidays. It is open to "up" travel on the hour and a ten-minute period following, advises the touring bureau of the Automobile Club of Southern California.

Miss La Haise's Chevrolet was first in its class, and averaged 34.47 ton miles per gallon of gasoline on the 190-mile trip. Chevrolet cars took first, second and third in their class.

MISERS HOARD MILLIONS IN OLD CURRENCY

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21.—Millions in old size currency which was replaced more than a year ago by the new small size paper money will never be presented for redemption, treasury officials have estimated.

Various methods of determining the amount which will never come back place the aggregate gain to the government at from $10,000,000 to as much as $70,000,000. In addition to amounts destroyed and lost, the treasury believes at least $50,000,000 has been hoarded.

Although circulating 15 months ago, a total of $890,209,000 in old size money is still outstanding. If only one per cent of this fails to 902,000.

Joseph S. McCoy, treasury secretary, believes that hoarding of paper money equals at least 50 cents per capita for the $122,000,000 persons in the United States, of a total of $61,000,000.

Aggregate hoardings of paper money, silver currency and gold is placed by McCoy at more than $400,000,000. This money is hoarded by the estimated 8000 misers in this country, in children's banks, by foreigners who do not trust our banks, by those in isolated communities without banks, and by many who wish to keep a certain amount of currency always on hand.

Catastrophes such as the Chicago or San Francisco fires destroy large amounts of currency. Thousands are lost annually in smaller fires or explosions.

The fastest turnover in currency is in the $1 bills. The average life of one of the old $1 bills was eight months, so it is probable most of those of the old series still out have either been destroyed or are hoarded. There are $340,908 of unredeemed $1 bills in national bank notes alone.

ADVISE MOTORISTS TO STUDY CARS AS MEANS OF BECOMING MORE CAREFUL OPERATORS

Motorists should study their cars and inform themselves on various important features and safe driving factors, advises the emergency road service department of the Automobile Club of Southern California, which lists the following points for attention of the careful driver:

The shortest distance in which the car can be stopped at varying speeds.
The speed at which it will take a turn safely on wet pavement or in mud.
To keep eyes and ears open while driving.

The turn the car will take in relation to the various positions of the steering wheel.

The distance you can expect to travel on a tank full of gas.

The rapidity with which your car will pick up speed after a slow-down.

To recognize common noises of the engine.

To test compression by cranking the engine.

How to park in a small space without interrupting traffic.

To drive on the right side of the highway at all times.

It is therefore confidently expected that at the end of the run an examination of the component parts of the mileage marathon car will add a great deal to the sum total of automobile engineering knowledge.

Culver Boulevard between Lincoln Boulevard and Jefferson Boulevard is again open to travel, advises the touring bureau of the Automobile Club of Southern California.

Camp Mattress Averts Injury

Crew of the "Pride of Hollywood" endurance flight ship are shown displaying the air mattress which prevented injury to two members of the crew when the ship made a forced landing in a rough field near Los Angeles. The men wrapped themselves in the pneumatic bed to absorb the shock when the plane struck the ground. The mattress was the type used by campers and was furnished the fliers by the Western Auto Supply Company. When the accident occurred, Mendell and Reinhardt were attempting to re-establish the refueling endurance record held by them for a period last year.

ARRAIGN YOUTH WHO INJURED 3 AT YORBA LINDA

Three matters came before Judge G. K. Soovel yesterday when the criminal calendar was called in his court.

Robert Carter, charged with assault with a deadly weapon, was arraigned before the court, but had his answer continued until November 28. Carter is the youth who fired a shot gun at four younger boys as they drove past his home several weeks ago, seriously wounding two of them, after they had been throwing metal bottle caps on the Carter lawn and drive. His victims were Phillip Lish, Harold Stambro, Henry Chane and Winnifred Schulte.

C. Huarte was arraigned on a bad check charge and his answer to arraignment was also continued until Nov. 28.

After a hearing on an application for probation, Henry Vandenhuevel, who had pleaded guilty to a charge of driving an auto without the owner's consent, was granted probation for the period of one year, provided he spend 60 days in the county jail and pay the car owner $20. It is alleged that Vandenhuevel and two girls took possession of a car that had been rented by another man and used it for a trip to San Diego, where they were arrested.

Orange 40, Brea-Olinda 6.
Excelsior 24, Anaheim 0.
Garden Grove, bye.

Next Week's Schedule (Final Games)
Anaheim at Huntington Beach (Thursday); Excelsior at Brea-Olinda (Saturday).

Coach Stewart White's powerful Orange high school football squad had completed a successful defense of the Orange county league championship it won last year.

The Panthers closed a gruelling season without defeat by pile-driving through "Shorty" Smith's Brea-Olinda Wildcats, 40 to 7, at Orange yesterday.

Orange now will enter the playoffs for the Southern California interscholastic title held by Long Beach. It is understood that the Panthers' first opponent will be Whittier, undefeated champion of the Foothill league, which clinched the flag in that circuit yesterday by beating South Pasadena, 38 to 0.

The Orange-Whittier contest is tentatively scheduled for a week from today but the location has not been established. There is a possibility that the teams may meet at Poly field, Santa Ana, one of the best available neutral grounds.

Orange started its season by defeating Santa Bernardino and Fullerton, and tying Santa Ana in non-conference games. The Whitemen defeated every school in the Orange league, its only real scare coming in the Tustin encounter which the Panthers finally pulled out of the fire, 20 to 12.

Whittier has had only one touchdown scored on it all season. It claims victories over the following teams: Monrovia, 25-7; Burbank, 45-0; Herbert Hoover (Glendale), 19-0; Muir Tech (Pasadena), 31-0; South Pasadena, 38-0.

"Big Bill" Cole, the Tustin "Miracle Man," yesterday led his Farm-ers into second place in the Orange league by giving Huntington Beach its only severe defeat of the season, 33-0.

Little Joe Crafts, fleet quarterback, was the big noise in Tustin's one-sided triumph. Crafts was instrumental in the scoring of all five touchdowns although his 30-yard run late in the fourth quarter was the only one he personally made across the last chalk-line. His running and passing put the ball in position for the other four, however.

Crafts ran, passed and defended like a real football player, his work outclassing that of any other man on the field.

Tustin scored in every quarter. Jack Lindsey made the first three touchdowns, the first after Crafts had carried the leather to the two-yard line, the second after a Crafts-to-Newman pass of 37 yards left the nugget on the 3-yard stripe and the third after a pass by the same combination deposited the ball on the 3-yard mark.

A 20-yard pass to Newman who made a spectacular catch on the goal-line accounted for the fourth touchdown and Crafts ended his Tustin career spectacularly in the final period by running off tackle and down the sidelines for 80 yards and a touchdown.

He evaded several tacklers by expert dodging and fast running on this long jaunt.

The day's other conference contest provided a mild upset with Excelsior, hitherto considered only a strong defensive club, showing unexpected offensive ability to trample Anaheim, 24 to 0.

The Pilots made three of their touchdowns in the fourth quarter. Quarterback Joe Roman proving the star of the scoring attack.

Yesterday's games unofficially closed the Orange County league season. Huntington Beach and Anaheim will meet Thanksgiving day and Brea-Olinda and Excelsior are to play off a protested match Saturday.

S. A. Skeet Club Turkey Shoot Planned Sunday

Although the severe wind-storm blew down most of the Santa Ana Skeet club's traps last night, the long awaited "open" turkey shoot will be conducted as scheduled tomorrow, Secretary Herb Carter announced.

Carpenters were at work today repairing and rebuilding the skeet, field and blue rock traps from which all members and any other shooters interested will fire.

PETROLLE WINS DECISION OVER JIM McLARNIN

BY L. S. CAMERON
(United Press Sports Correspondent)
NEW YORK, Nov. 22.—Billy Petrolle, usually subtitled "The Fargo Express," today sat on the throne of the lightweights.

Petrolle earned his title as crown prince of this currently popular class by scoring an impressively convincing 10-round decision over Jimmy McLarnin, courageous, two-fisted welterweight of Vancouver, B. C., and California. McLarnin offered as an excuse that he had broken his right hand early in the bout.

The Petrolle victory, by the way, was the third consecutive four to one sure thing to go sour in Madison Square Garden.

McLarnin had been so pronounced a favorite that the wise boys who offered their four-to-one were able to find but few takers. This of course turned out to be a break for the professional gamblers who had been sure they would recoup their losses on Chocolate against La Barba and on Singer against Canzoneri.

The fight was the best seen in New York this season as well as the bloodiest.

The drama of the fight began in the first round when Petrolle opened a two-fisted attack which nearly floored the Vancouver boy. Again in the second Jimmy was nearly floored but, glassy eyed, he fought on and stayed upright.

McLarnin was down twice for counts of nine in the fourth.

The United Press sheet gave Petrolle all of the rounds except in the sixth which McLarnin won and the third and fifth which were even.

Despite the enormous point margin piled up by Petrolle the bout remained interesting at every moment. This was because McLarnin who boasts a reputation as a puncher often rocked Petrolle with rights to the head, and even at his bloodiest, McLarnin was ever dangerous, despite his bad hand.

48,000 GATHER FOR IRISH-PURPLE GAME

DIYCHE STADIUM, EVANSTON, ILL., Nov. 22.—Forty-eight thousand spectators gathered here this afternoon for the Western championship football game between the undefeated teams of Northwestern and Notre Dame university.

Clear, cold weather made playing conditions ideal and the bright sun took the "bite" from the chill wind and added to the comfort of spectators.

DIVODI STOPS PORTILLO
SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 22.—Andy Divodi, 146-1-2, New York, won a technical knockout over Tony Portillo, 144-1-2, San Diego, in the second round of a scheduled 10-round main event here last night. After rising from a count of six, Portillo dropped to the floor again without being hit, disqualifying himself.

GLORIOUS DEVON WINNER OF MANCHESTER TURF CLASSIC
MANCHESTER, Eng., Nov. 22.—(UP)—Glorious Devon won the Manchester November Handicap today, closing the 1930 flat racing season with a turf battle on which a fortune of about $2,000,000 was won by holders of tickets in the Irish hospital benefit sweepstakes. The ticket on the winner was worth $1,023,820.

Colony II, was second in the race. The ticket on the second place winner, worth $409,425, was held by A. P. Dawe of West Vancouver, B. C.

Nestorian was third, winning $204,765 for his ticket holder, Selina Thompson, Workshop, Eng.

Glorious Devon was quoted at 25 to 1 in the betting and came home three lengths in front of Colony II, 40 to 1 shot.

Nestorian, at 100 to 1, was four lengths back of Colony II.

Racing circles reported today that the handlers of at least two horses had intimated to holders of tickets on those horses in the Dublin Sweep that the horse would be scratched unless the sweepstakes prize were divided. If a horse starts, the ticket pays more than $8000, but if he is scratched, only about $2500.

SANTA ANA 'B' GRIDMEN LOSE SEASON FINALE

At least one Santa Ana football season had been completed today.

Coach Clyde Patton's Saint "Bees" finished their schedule yesterday, losing a 24 to 0 decision to Fullerton high school's middleweights at Fullerton.

The Saints held the powerful Fullerton outfit even in the first half but succumbed to a determined Indian ariel attack in the final two quarters, three of the four touchdowns coming on passes.

Fullerton began its scoring activities in the third period when Mulligan intercepted a Saint toss. Raft then stepped back and heaved a 40-yard pass to Muro over the goal line. The second touchdown came in the same quarter when Sheldon lobbed the sphere to Raft who promptly planted himself in six-point territory. The third tally came in the last stanza when Raft again heaved the pilskin to Muro over the goal line. The last score was accounted for by Muro who scored on a off-tackle slant.

The Indians' running plays were stopped cold at the line of scrimmage by the crack Saint line and the visitors had to resort to the air to snatch victory out of the fire.

Russell Cochens, working his last game for the Saints, played sensationally. He is the one who has instilled spirit and pep in the Saint games throughout the season. Bill Campbell held his halfback station down creditably as usual, and he was one of the shining lights on defensive work during the entire schedule.

Other players who have starred during the season are Lockhart, Illingsworth, Conrad, Mitchell, Bove, Spurgeon, Crawford, Montgomery, Whitford, Cormier, and Douglas.

The score:

LATHROP'S MIDGETS DEFEATED BY GROVE

Coach Merle Ewell's 110-pound Julia C. Lathrop junior high school football squad lost, 13 to 6, to the Garden Grove "Cees" yesterday at Garden Grove.

The touchdowns for both teams came in the last half, the Spartans holding the Chilipeppers safe all during the initial stanza.

In the second half the Grove backs, Shinto and Gwinn, ran wild and were responsible for gains that finally culminated in two touchdowns. Incidentally, Shinto and Gwinn are both former Lathrop boys, Shinto playing first string football on the Lathrop varsity two years ago.

This was the last game of the season for the Spartan midgets and although their offensive work has been weak their defense has showed that they could play football. Some of the boys will bid high for berths on the varsity squad next year.

The Lathrop lineup: Ends, Levins and Musvri; tackles, Disney and Githens; guards, Tomlinson and Durbin; center, Hubbard; halfbacks, Shill and Dye; fullback, Rowell; quarterback, Reyes.

NOTRE DAME RECORD
SOUTH BEAD, Ind., Nov. 22.—The years 1919 and 1920 are the only two successive ones in which Notre Dame was undefeated in football, although the 1924 and 1929 teams won all their games. Coach Rockne is out to repeat the former feat, just a decade later by winning all games this year.

HE'S EAST'S ACE

Honors in the east's individual scoring race at present rates with Len Macaluso, Colgate's 195-pound fullback, who has crossed his opponents' goal line 10 times and kicked 18 points after touchdown. He was a scrub last fall, but three months' effort with a Pennsylvania railroad section gang last summer fitted him out for the varsity berth this season. Macaluso is six feet three inches tall and is a prospective intercollegiate shot and discus champion next spring.

Bears Hope For Upset
Face to face with the most depressing set of cold facts a California team has ever been confronted by, the Bears still talk of winning. Dogged by injuries all season, they have placed one patched eleven after another on the field, to receive beatings from two teams they haven't lost to in years and to take the largest thumping from Southern California ever handed a California varsity.

In addition, the team has been affected by student discord, coolness toward the coaching regime and a sharp exchange of personalities with U. S. C. regarding professionalism. And they talk of winning. And they may do it.

That cheerful soul, the California alumnus, noted for a naive disregard of statistics, points out that Cal has won one before this year shown a fleeting touch of greatness—when the Bears came through early in the fall to take one of the coast's greatest teams, the Gallop-ing Gaels of St. Mary's. They point out that the backfield that functioned like champions in the Gael encounter is, for the first time since, able again to take the field.

Cards Did It Last Year
They remind one of last year's pregame expiring, when Stanford had lost to U. S. C. and California had taken the Trojans. Also, Stanford had gone the week before the Big Game to Washington and emerged, bruised and battered, from as hard a game as they had all year. Stanford hadn't a chance, but an ennobled Cardinal varsity hadn't heard about it, and they ran through California to the astounding tune of 21-6. It's a poor rule that won't work both ways, is the determined platitude of the California alumnus, with a disconcerting reversion to logic.

Stanford, which has had more brilliant years, has nevertheless shown to a better advantage in the encounters they have shared. The Cardinals scored twice against U. S. C., who blanked California; Stanford defeated Washington by a thumping score and the huskies took California, 13-0. Stanford defeated Santa Clara and Olympic club, while California was scored on by the first and licked by the second.

Stribling Meets Griffith Dec. 12
CHICAGO, Nov. 22.—Matchmaker Nate Lewis today announced the signing of W. L. (Young) Stribling and Gerald (Tuffy) Griffith for a 10-round bout at Chicago stadium, December 12.

LEO DIEGEL IN SAN CLEMENTE MATCH MONDAY

The best professionals and amateurs of Southern California will compete for honors on the San Clemente golf course Monday.

It is a regular monthly tourney of the Southern California association and players will start teeing off at 1 p. m. Fifteen pros and their amateur partners will play the course.

Leo Diegel, one of the world's best golfers, a pro at Agua Caliente, is scheduled to take part in the tourney. Roy Tufts of Chula Vista will be another star present.

San Clemente will be represented by Babe Brissonneau, pro and Tom Murphree Jr., amateur.

There will be no gallery charge.

LOUGHNAN GETS NOD IN LEVINSKY MATCH

CHICAGO, Nov. 22.—Tommy Loughnan of Philadelphia, former light heavyweight champion, won a decisive victory over King Levinsky, young Chicago heavyweight, by outpointing him in a 10-round bout last night in the Chicago stadium.

A crowd of 14,428 paid approximately $30,092.56 to see the bout. Loughnan weighed 182-1-2, Levinsky 180-3-4.

Loughnan jammed and cuffed the awkward Levinsky around the ring, and won nine rounds, with one even.

BOXING TAKES PLACE
CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Nov. 22.—Recognition by Harvard of boxing as a minor sport has greatly heightened interest in organized fistfights at the local university this season. Fifty candidates for the boxing team have already reported to Coach Larry Conley.

JOE GOEDERS LOSES BOUT TO COURTNEY

George Courtney, Oklahoma cowboy, won an easy 10-round victory over Joe Goeders, Santa Ana, in a main event at the Hollywood Legion stadium last night. They are light heavyweights.

Courtney had his opponent on the canvas for a count of four in the ninth round. Goeders did not show the punch that has featured many of his recent matches.

Ernie Hood won a decision over Jimmy Mack in the semi-final.

WARN TROJANS OF WASHINGTON TEAM'S POWER

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 22.—University of Southern California's football team will face one of its toughest opponents of the season in the University of Washington eleven at the Coliseum Thanksgiving day, Sam Barry and Cliff Herd, Trojan scouts and assistant coaches, warned the Trojan squad today.

Believing that some of the Southern California players have been thinking too much lately about their game December 6 with Notre Dame and not enough of the immediate problem, the Washington contest, Barry and Herd, who have both seen the Huskies in action this season, informed the Trojans that they have a real battle on their hands on Turkey day.

According to the scouts' advice to the Trojans, the Southern Californians have a hard-running boy to stop in Merle Hufford, sensational Washington halfback, while Bill Marsh, a powerful left-footed kicker, may keep Troy continually in hot water with his long boots.

Aiding these two strong backs is a sturdy line that kept the powerful conference championship Washington State team from crossing the goal line a week ago. Consequently, when Southern California's boys stop to figure out what they will go up against in the Husky game they will find they have no excuse for over-confidence, the scouts said.

Five Southern California stars will be watched as possible All-American material in the Thanksgiving day game. As nearly all of the All-American selections of the year will be made before the Notre Dame game, the Husky contest will afford the last opportunity for critics who are soon to name their teams to judge the work of Erny Pinckert, right half; Marshall Duffield and Orv Mohler, quarterback; John Baker, guard, and Garrett Arbelbide, end.

Because he had already proved to be the greatest blocking back on the coast and in recent games has also shown splendid ball carrying ability, Pinckert appears to lead the field at present in western All-American possibilities. If he turns in his usual high class game against the Huskies, football followers believe that his All-American selection on the major teams is assured.

KREG TO OFFER NEW PROGRAMS FOR LISTENERS

On its Monday morning program KREG will inaugurate several new features which, it is believed, will meet with popular approval. The opening of the daily programs at 10 a. m. will bring to radio listeners a 15 minute broadcast of sacred music, from phonograph records.

This part of the program will be followed by a 15 minute broadcast of old time music, also from phonograph records, to be heard from 10:15 to 10:30 a. m.

Red Seal phonograph recordings will entertain listeners from 11 to 11:30 a. m. on the new Monday morning program. The popularity of the high class phonograph record programs broadcast over KREG has been so great that the management has responded by placing more of this type of music on its programs.

CHURCH SERVICES TO BE BROADCAST

Church services will be broadcast tomorrow by KREG. From 10:30 a. m. to noon services from the First Congregational church, of which the Rev. Perry F. Schrock is pastor, will be broadcast by remote control.

From 7 to 8:30 p. m. services from the Spurgeon Memorial Methodist church, South, of which the Rev. C. M. Aker is pastor, will be on the air. This broadcast also will be by remote control.

NERVE

SAULTE STE. MARIE, Ont.—It took a lot of nerve for thieves who recently stole two pigs here. The pigs were right in front of the city jail, and under cover of night, the thieves killed and dressed them in their pens, and carried away the carcasses, leaving the refuse in the pen.

FRANKLIN FINNEYS THANK S. A. FIREMEN

Mr. and Mrs. Franklin H. Finney, whose big home on Fifth street, two miles west of the city, was burned to the ground November 14 during the absence of the family, are temporarily located at 112 1-2 North Ross street, in this city, and are not contemplating building on their ranch at present, anyway.

The building was a total loss, although both Mr. and Mrs. Finney today expressed their appreciation of the men of the city fire department for their efforts to avert the loss, being especially appreciative because the home was far out of the fire district, and the companies were under no obligation to make the run. Their prompt action saved the fire from spreading to adjoining buildings on the ranch, and to the nearby houses, according to Mrs. Finney.

It was due to the prompt action of the firemen and of the neighbors, that a number of pieces of household furniture were saved, as the workers entered the flaming building and saved as much as possible in the limited time that was allowed them by the encroaching flames.

HOLIDAY PLANNED BY SAN CLEMENTE

SAN CLEMENTE, Nov. 22.—On December 27, if present plans of the chamber of commerce and city council materialize, the cornerstone of the new Santa Fe depot at San Clemente will be laid. A special train, the first train from San Clemente, will carry Spanish village citizens and friends from the south coast and county to Agua Caliente.

C. D. Lindsey, traveling passenger agent of the Santa Fe, and Mayor Thomas F. Murphy held a conference here yesterday at which plans for the celebration were outlined. Lindsey stated a train of 10 cars would be available for the day.

Mayor Murphy says that it is planned to declare a holiday on December 27. Every place of business in town will be asked to close doors and join the pleasure seekers. Invitations will be extended to citizens of Serra, San Juan Capistrano, Laguna Beach and other Orange county and San Diego coast towns to join San Clemente in its celebration.

LOVE STORY OF DEBUTANTE TO BE PICTURIZED

"Confessions of a Debutante," the contents of a society girl's anonymous novel soon to be published, is to be produced as an all-talking picture by Paramount, according to an announcement from Jesse L. Lasky, first vice president of the film company, in charge of production.

Mary Brian, one of Hollywood's best-known leading women, and Phillips Holmes, hero of "The Devil's Holiday" and "Her Man," will be co-stars in this dramatic story of the life and loves of a daughter of society.

Holmes is now in New York.

where he will enact the leading role opposite Nancy Carroll in "Stolen Heaven," and Miss Brian is in the film colony following the completion of her role in "The Royal Family."

The direction has been placed in the hands of Max March, author of "The Live Ghosts" and "Vorkapich," continental artist has shown a rare dramatic ability in the past several months. March has been the dialogue director of a number of recent Paramount productions.

Scenes Prepared
The adaptation of the debutante's story is being prepared by Sam Spewack, playwright and scenarist, while Marie Baumer and Marion Dix are writing the screen play.

"Confessions of a Debutante," will precede in production the recently-announced "Confessions of a Co-Ed," from the diary of a university girl. The latter film is to be made early next year.

"SEA LEGS" TO PLAY AT B'DWAY FOR FOUR DAYS

There are more laughs in an Oakie grin than the whole hyena family could muster in a life-time of laughter. There are more laughs in Jack Oakie's "Sea Legs" than in any Oakie picture to date. It's a swell sea swell capped with the Oakie wise-cracks.

"Sea Legs," which will open a four-day run at the Fox Broadway theater Monday, gives Oakie everything he needs for his mirth-making. It has a cargo of comedy lures it would be hard to beat, anywhere. George Marion, Jr., slingsling de luxe, wrote them. It is equipped with a series of hilarious situations. (I'm thinking particularly of the moment when Oakie wakes up from a heavy sleep to find himself shanghaied and shipped under a strange name aboard a ship he never heard of before, and of the moment Oakie discovers the ship is packed with girls.) And "Sea Legs" is manned, and woman-manned, with a great fun-producing cast, Harry Green, Lillian Roth, Eugene Pallette and others.

"Sea Legs" takes Jackie Oakie into the navy of a tiny republic of which no one has ever heard. He's shanghaied to fill the berth of a young millionaire slacker. Harry Green is the wily lawyer who arranges the situation for Oakie. And the ship is home to a dozen of the captain's beautiful daughters, from which Oakie selects one to take care of his heart. Forced to continue under the imposed name, Oakie finds much compensation in trading on his principal's name, but the whole affair gets him into a ticklish situation and results in an impromptu battle between two opposing sailor groups.

In these rippling situations, the happiness hit of the hour waxes eloquent and joyful. He sings two really catchy song numbers, both of which contain many a chuckle. "It Must Be Illegal" and "A Daisy Told Me." And I'm telling you: Catch Jack Oakie's "Sea Legs." Roll all over the deck laughing.

Amos 'n' Andy, Floyd Gibbons, Walter Damrosch, Graham McNamee and other radio stars have nothing on William Haines as he appears in his latest Metro-Goldwyn Mayer talkie, "Remote Control," now at the Fox Broadway theater.

In the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picture of the New York stage hit, Haines plays the role of an announcer and one-man staff of a defunct radio station, filling all the "acts" by himself and doubling for all performers on the program.

From all reports the new Haines vehicle supplies that "something different" which is the ingredient of all screen successes, being a combination of comedy and melodrama so that the audience finds itself in the unusual situation of laughing one moment and sitting on the edge of its seats another.

The plot revolves about a number of bank robberies which occur simultaneously with the nightly broadcasting of a series of clairvoyant readings given by a mysterious Professor Kruger. How broadcasting station becomes involved in the crimes and subsequently traces them to the perpetrators makes up the extremely baffling story.

A clever cast supports the star, including Charles King, who sings the song hit of the production, "Just a Little Closer"; Mary Moran, in the feminine lead; John Miljan, in his usual villainous capacity; Polly Moran as the droll expert on beauty talks; J. C. Nugent, Edward Nugent, Wilbur Mack, James Donlan, Edward Brophy, Warner P. Richmond and Russell Hopton.

Edward Sedgwick directed the picture. Evelyn now has a total elephant population of 2600, according to recent census. Of these 1000 are still in a wild state.

WEIRD THINGS SEEN IN NEW PICTURES

"Strange as it Seems" is the name of a new Multicolor reel which shows the eccentricities of nature and presents historical slip-ups and out-standing personalities of our generation. A man who swallows live gold fish; goes ducks; the truth about Anthony and Cleopatra; and nature's most beautiful scenery, are among the subjects of early releases.

COOPER IN UNIFORM OF FOREIGN LEGION

HOLTZ GOES TALKIE
Lou Holtz, for many years an Orpheum circuit headliner, plays a comedy role in Ed Wynn's Paramount picture, "Follow the Leader."

HERE IN "SUNNY"

Marilyn Miller, beautiful blond star who comes to the Fox West Coast theater Monday for three days in her great stage success, now latest all-talking picture, "Sunny."

WILLIAM HAINES "EAST IS WEST" IN AIR PICTURE STARTS TODAY AT BROADWAY AT WEST COAST

Definitely cataloguing herself as a most versatile actress, Lupe Velez will be seen here Saturday and Sunday in her latest role, that of Ming Toy, a Chinese girl, in Universal's "East Is West," at the Fox West Coast theater.

In the last Lupe has been seen as a Mexican, a Spaniard, a South American, a French girl and a Canadian but this latest role definitely proves her ability as a delineator of difficult and decidedly varied types.

Based on the Fay Bainter stage success of the same name in which that famous actress played for three years, "East Is West" proves a charming story of a little Chinese girl who is purchased from a love boat in China by an American youth and set free in the United States. Here she falls in love with her benefactor and he with her. The natural complications and prejudices against an inter-racial marriage are brought up by the boy's wealthy family but they, too, are won over by the genuine sweetness and charm of Ming Toy.

A kidnapping which fails in its accomplishment leads to a most surprising and happy climax.

Lewis Ayres, the boy who leaped to fame overnight as Paul Baumer in "All Quiet on the Western Front," plays the role of Billy Benson, the American youth, with modest grace and real sincerity. This is his first romantic lead, and he scores a great hit.

STAGE SUCCESS BROUGHT HERE WITH ITS STAR

Marilyn Miller will ride to added fame in her most successful vehicle, "Sunny," when it arrives at the Fox West Coast theater Monday, according to Manager Norman Sprowl.

Mr. Sprowl, who saw a preview of the picture a few days ago, said it is without a doubt the greatest work that this great little star has done. The film version adheres faithfully to the story outline which distinguished the stage musical comedy, and Manager Sprowl is confident of the picture's amusement value.

The story is that of a little English girl in a circus, played by Marilyn Miller. She loves a rich young scion of the aristocracy, but he is quite unaware of the depth of her feelings. In fact he scarcely gives her a thought, and is himself engaged to a girl who has been brought up with him. The little girl of the circus merely amuses him.

The action develops to the point where the wealthy young man (Lawrence Gray) comes to realize the affection of the petite circus performer—comes to realize it and to reciprocate it. The realization comes just at the time Sunny is about to marry a fellow-performer who is going to America. She, too, wants to go to America because she cannot stand England, where her love is not returned. And so she persuades Joe Donahue to marry her so that she can enter the States as a married woman under the immigration laws.

The exciting romantic climax that takes place at this point will have a universal appeal, Manager Sprowl assures patrons of the Fox West Coast theater. First National has spared no expense in preparing moviegoers for the big moment of this big picture, he said yesterday. In addition to the star and the supporting male lead, Lawrence Gray, there are such well-known and capable stage and screen celebrities as Inez Courtney, of the Broadway stage; Joe Donahue, brother of the late Jack Donahue; O. P. Heggie, Judith Vossell, Clyde Cook, Barbara Bedford and any number of genuine circus stars.

LOYD ARRIVES EAST AS NEW FILM OPENS

Harold Lloyd reached New York yesterday to be on hand during the showing of his new talking comedy, "Feet First," which has just opened at the Rialto theater. He will be there at least a week.

The comedian was accompanied from Hollywood by his brother, Gaylord Lloyd, who acted as assistant director on "Feet First."

BUYS NOTED PLAY
Paramount has acquired screen rights to Ernest Hemingway's current New York stage hit, "A Farewell to Arms," and the comedy production of last season, "Mendel, Inc."

WILLIAM POWELL TO PLAY 'LADIES MAN'

William Powell's next talking picture production will be "Ladies Man," from the story by Rupert Hughes. The picture will start in about ten days at the Paramount studios in Hollywood. Lothar Mendes, who is to direct, arrives from New York early next week, according to B. P. Schulberg, managing director of production, who considers the stellar role, that of a Broadway Don Juan, an excellent one for Powell.

At the same time he decided upon the new vehicle, Schulberg announced that "Alias Mrs. Wallace," the Octavus Roy Cohen play purchased as a Powell starring feature, will be produced immediately with another cast.

"IN GAY MADRID" AT WALKERS ON SUNDAY

A Spanish setting was selected for the locale of Ramon Novarro's Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer all-talking and singing picture, "In Gay Madrid," which will open Sunday at Walker's State.

"In Gay Madrid" is an adaptation of the Spanish classic, "La Casa de la Troya," written by Alejandro Perez Lugin, and concerns the son of a Marquis who when he is sent to a university involves himself in a romance which is almost brought to ruin because of his previous affair with a Madrid dancer. The production has been handsomely fitted both as regards settings and costumes. Musical attractions include six songs sung by Novarro and a male chorus of fifty trained voices.

Smart Dinner Bridge Series Concluded In Farnsworth Home

Coming as a prelude to a Thanksgiving week of many affairs was the series of smart dinner parties given this past week in the home of Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Farnsworth at 2219 North Broadway. At the first two, given on Monday and Wednesday evenings, Mr. and Mrs. O. H. Egge assisted Mr. and Mrs. Farnsworth as hosts.

Table appointments for all three affairs were especially lovely, and featured tapas in varying tints of yellow. Chrysanthemums in the most brilliant autumn shades formed the background for the enjoyable evenings, and were attractively arranged in large bouquets.

Bridge sessions followed each of the tempting menu courses, and at the first party Mr. and Mrs. R. O. Winkler held high scores, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Morrow second and Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Deimling were consoled. At the second affair Mrs. George Briggs and Dr. J. I. Clark held high score, Mr. and Mrs. C. V. Davis second and Mr. and Mrs. George Perkins low.

Mr. and Mrs. Farnsworth presided again last night at the final one of the series. At this time high scores were held by Mr. and Mrs. T. B. Talbert of Huntington Beach, second high by Mr. and Mrs. Howard Timmons, and Mr. and Mrs. Anton Segstrom were consoled. Prize awards at each of the functions were enclosed in dainty wrappings carrying out a colorful autumn motif, and were tied with yellow ribbons.

Birthday Honors Paid To Neighborhood Club Member

Mrs. P. A. Robinson's birthday of recent date was most delightfully celebrated Thursday afternoon when a surprise party was held with Mrs. Charles Robinson as hostess in her lovely country home on East Chapman avenue. Members of the Neighborhood club and long time friends of the honoree were present.

The afternoon was spent in discussing many things of interest to a group so intimately acquainted. Refreshments were served, and a feature of the delectable course was a prettily decorated birthday cake. Mrs. Robinson received many gifts which, with their attractive wrappings, were suggestive of the approaching Christmas season.

Those present, other than Mrs. P. A. Robinson, the honoree, and Mrs. Charles Robinson, the hostess, were Mesdames W. N. Smith, A. M. Gardner, D. Eymann Huff, E. B. Sprague, S. M. Davis, Caroline Fisher, Ruby Hickox, W. B. Snow, J. G. Quirk, C. W. Burns, F. W. Weissman, G. E. Burns, E. E. Keech, H. C. Humphrey and L. K. Strong.

OLINDA BRIDE

Mrs. Charles Swan of Brea, was, prior to her marriage in early November, the lovely Miss Guinevere Reed, daughter of Harold Reed of Olinda. The wedding was a morning event of November 5, in the home of the Rev. Remfy Hunt, Brea, with Miss Neva Henderson of Olinda, and Leonard Bassett of Riverside, as attendants. Mr. and Mrs. Swan spent their honeymoon in San Diego. They are now at home to their friends in Brea where Mr. Swan is in the hardware business. He is president of the Brea Junior Lions club.

Miss Beulah May Has Returned to Home In This City

Her many friends are happy to welcome the return of Miss Beulah May to her home at 1022 Mabury street, after an extended stay in Las Encinas sanatorium in the Sierra Madre foothills, and are especially happy to see her improvement in health.

Her months in Las Encinas gave her many pleasant experiences in addition to their curative qualities, and she put her spare time in good use by continuing her writing. Miss May's poems are gaining a wide recognition that is very gratifying to her Santa Ana friends, who will be interested in learning that she will be represented in an anthology of Southern California verse writers which Snow Longley Rouse is bringing out just in advance of Christmas.

Professor Hoyt Hudson of the English department of Princeton university, has written to her in friendly appreciation of her poetic works, seconding the approval and interest so enthusiastically expressed by Dr. Spaeth, who uses many of her poems in his class work.

Miss May was among the guests at the California Art Club on Thursday night, when a most amusing entertainment was provided by clever burlesques on the work of the club of which she herself is a member. She was welcomed to the latest meeting of the Book Review section of Ebell which met immediately after her return to Santa Ana, with Mrs. Terry E. Stephenson.

Lovely Floral Theme Employed at Affair In Robinson Home

Sprays of bittersweet gathered from Ohio woodlands, and brought with her on her return from a summer in the east, were used by Mrs. Eugene Robinson to adorn her home at 1802 Spurgeon street in honor of the members of her bridge club, entertained there on Wednesday. The brilliant burnt orange berries of the bittersweet, were considered as unique as they were ornamental, by the club members.

Luncheon was served at small tables centered with slim yellow tapas to carry out the chosen yellow and green color scheme. Bridge games followed, with Mrs. William Penn and Mrs. J. A. Gajski scoring high, while Mrs. Arthur Trawick was consoled.

Those present other than Mrs. Robinson were Mesdames William Penn, Don Hilliard, J. A. Gajski, Arthur Trawick, Claude Sleeper, Calvin Powers, Warren Hilliard, Edwin Scates, Charles Adams, Edwin McFadden and John Backus.

Minnesota Guests Are Entertained at Club Meeting

Members of the Stitch and Chat-ter club held a most interesting meeting Thursday afternoon when Mrs. Ralph Crane was hostess in her home at 1024 North Ross street. The living rooms were decked with autumn flowers.

A word contest and needlework were enjoyed, following which the hosts served fruit, jello, cake and cocoa.

Mesdames George Chatwood, Louise Foat and Etta Starkey of Campbell, Minn., were guests, while club members present other than the hostess were Mesdames Josie Antistiel, Harold Dawson, R. Earl Elliott, George Graham, Harry Johnston, Oscar Martin, L. H. Neff, Belle Rogers, W. W. Adamson, J. W. Hancock, Z. B. West, Walter Ozmet, Charles W. Ryan, and the Misses Miriam Adamson, Pauline Graham and Bessie Margaret Potter.

Miss Elena Mercereau Was Incentive For Lovely Party

With only a brief interval before the marriage of Miss Elena Mercereau, charming daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. D. Mercereau, 1506 West Fifth street, to the Rev. Einar Knudsen of Oakland, the many friends of the popular young bride-elect are hastening to compliment her in various delightful pre-nuptial affairs.

The latest of these was given last night by Miss Ruth Stephenson and Miss Ruth Crawford, who welcomed a group of friends in the home of Miss Stephenson, 433 West Santa Clara avenue. A varied amusement program had been planned by the co-hostesses, who of course stressed the bridal theme in all details of entertaining. One lively contest was a "flower romance" in which the guests had to supply the names of blossoms to complete the pretty story.

Needlework had its fascinations and resulted in a set of embroidered guest towels in a variety of rainbow colors, provided by Miss Stephenson and Miss Crawford and presented to the honoree upon their completion.

The climax of interest was reached when guests were blindfolded one at a time, and provided with small corsage bouquets to complete the costume of a pretty bride whose portrait was hung before a wide doorway. Miss Mercereau was the final entrant in the contest, and the portrait was drawn aside to permit her to enter the adjoining room where a table heaped with packages awaited her. The gifts were all in linen and added many beautiful things to the treasured supply of the prospective bride.

The late supper was served to the accompaniment of such pretty details as embroidered linens, dainty crystal, and slender vases of rosebuds, harmonizing with the lovely blossoms adorning the home. Chicken salad with cheese straws, orange ice with vanilla ice cream, chocolate and angel food cake and coffee completed the elaborate menu.

Those present were the Misses Elena Mercereau, honoree, Dorothy Forgy, Enid Twist, Geneva Moore, Mary Grizet, Elizabeth Herrington of Orange, Mary Roberts and Mesdames Hazel Tulene, L. D. Mercereau, A. A. Crawford, J. L. Stephenson, Belle McKinstry and Lorraine Owens of Los Angeles.

Alpha Rho Tau Group Was Entertained In Unique Manner

Gathering in the home of Miss Gladys Gould, 1001 North Parton street, members of Alpha Rho Tau junior college were conducted to an attractively decorated and cozy basement where tables were found in readiness for an evening of bridge.

Effective decorations were carried out with branches and greenery from the garden combined with a pretty pink, yellow and green color scheme.

During the business session at which Miss Geraldine Cole presided, Miss Maybelle Ball brought up the question of making programs for the forthcoming Jaycee Christmas dance. Robert Marshall, who is president of the Laguna Beach Junior Art association, told of a lecture to be given next Saturday and of the possibilities of the members of the club attending in a group. Mr. Marshall suggested also the possibility of the organization joining this association which would give many opportunities to junior college students for exhibiting and for constructive criticism.

A delicious two course supper was served with a lovely cake on which were candles for each member of the club present and lettered on the top was "Alpha Rho Tau" in pink.

Those enjoying the evening at Miss Gould's lovely home were Miss Maybelle Ball, John Jamison, John Wykes, Edgar Fry, Harley Melgram, Miss Virginia Pope, Miss Beatrice Holly, Miss Florine Pollock, Robert Marshall, Miss Geraldine Cole, Miss Elizabeth Straw, Miss Goldie Peale and the adviser, Miss Anna Giles, and George Gould, who was a guest of the club.

Bridge Playing Group Welcomed to Home In Anaheim

Mrs. Clayton Hutchings was hostess at a charming little bridge party last Wednesday evening when she entertained in her home at Anaheim. Chrysanthemums in rich bronze shades were placed throughout the rooms.

When scores for the evening's diversion were added, Miss Dorothy Dresser was awarded the prize for high score, while Miss Vena Belle Bryant's score entitled her to second prize. Delicious refreshments were served at a late hour.

Those present over than the hostess, Mrs. Hutchings, were Mesdames Clyde Martin of Anaheim, E. Lee Bryant, Albert P. Dresser, Lewis C. Underwood, Agnes Montgomery, and the Misses Vena Bell Bryant, Louise Bryant, Hattie Bell Wall, and Dorothy Dresser of this city. Miss Mayme Brightwell of Santa Ana and Miss Jeannette Huarte of Anaheim were guests of the club.

Hostesses Compliment Recent Bride With Gift Shower

That holiday spirit so characteristic of the season was charmingly manifested yesterday afternoon when Mrs. James Warner and Mrs. L. R. Knight entertained in the latter's home at 411 West Elsie street, honoring Mrs. Richard Walz, a bride of early November. Garlands of eucalyptus were festooned across the mantel and other places as well, lending a note of brilliancy to the attractive rooms.

Prior to her marriage on November 3, the honoree was Miss Dorothy Henshaw, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Henshaw of Grand avenue. Yesterday's affair truly surprised her, and when she arrived at the Knight home anticipating an intimate social hour with her hostess, she was amazed to find a room full of guests awaiting her. Most of those present were old-time friends of the young bride, and have watched her grow to young womanhood.

Soon after her arrival she was presented with a basket of miscellaneous gifts. Among these was an exquisite Italian cutwork luncheon set sent from Los Angeles by Miss Margaret Von Essen.

During the refreshment course, card tables were spread with dainty linens, and centering a special table for the bride was a slender red taper placed in a frilly base.

Co-Hostesses Conclude Party Series With Autumn Luncheon

Concluding the series of functions with which they have added to the charm of the autumn season, Mrs. Milford L. Willits of this city, and Mrs. Nelson T. Edwards of Orange, joined on Thursday in presenting a luncheon and bridge of much individual charm, in the beautiful home of Senator and Mrs. Edwards, 350 South Glassell street, Orange.

The spacious home is well adapted to entertaining, and its attractions were increased by the use of quantities of flowers running the gamut of the autumn scale, from pale ivory to deep rust and tawny orange shades. In the dining room where luncheon was served at 1 o'clock, two long tables were employed with Mrs. Edwards presiding at the head of one and Mrs. Willits at the other.

Each table expressed the riches of the autumn season, with its central "horn of plenty" whose fruits made brilliant splashes of color on the exquisite linens brought by Mrs. Edwards from Havana. Slender yellow tapas shed their soft radiance on the scene, and added charm was given by the place cards depicting baskets overflowing with fruits.

Mrs. Edward W. Dahl and Mrs. Ora Tetzlaff of this city assisted the hostesses in various pleasant duties, among them the distribution of tally cards at the conclusion of the course luncheon. By their means the guests found places at the card tables awaiting them in living room and library for the afternoon session of bridge.

After the high and low scores at each table had been collected, it was discovered that Mrs. Robert Mize had scored high, so to her was presented the first prize in this brilliant autumnal wrappings. It proved to be a handsome large vase in sparkling green crystal banded with gold. Equally beautiful were the black crystal bowls each with a silver filigree design, presented as second high and consolation gifts to Mrs. Anna Richards and Mrs. Frank W. Slabaugh.

Guests asked to share the hospitality of Mrs. Edwards were Willits included Mesdames John P. Baumgartner, George Briggs, Alex Brownridge, Harry Duckett, Edward W. Dahl, George H. Dobson, F. E. The tables were beautifully decorated in a yellow color motif while baby 'nuns formed the floral decorations. Following enjoyment of the elaborate menu, a series of interesting games occupied the remainder of the evening.

Mrs. R. B. Harrington, a bride of recent date, was formerly Miss Vivian O'Neill of Pasadena, but whose home used to be in Anaheim. The young people are now honeymooning in San Diego but will return shortly to make their home in Anaheim where Mr. Harrington is with the Motor Transit company.

Anaheim Man Wedded to Charming Pasadena at Church Rites

A wedding of unusual interest was that of Miss Vivian O'Neill, formerly of Anaheim but of recent years of Pasadena, and daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Thomas O'Neill, to R. B. Harrington, son of Mrs. Elizabeth Harrington of 842 South Los Angeles street, Anaheim. The wedding took place at the Church of Resurrection, Santa Barbara, Wednesday morning November 12, at 9 o'clock, the Rev. Father Cox of Montecito, cousin of the bride, reading the service. The nuptial mass was read by the Rev. Father O'Regan. The single ring ceremony was used and Harold O'Neill, brother of the bride, gave her in marriage.

Mrs. Josephine Ryan of Los Angeles, also a cousin of the bride served as matron of honor and Mrs. Nathaniel Roberts completed Mrs. O'Neill's attendants. John Harrington, brother of the groom, was best man. Ushers were James Matthews of Santa Barbara and William Lewis of Los Angeles.

Miss O'Neill, the lovely brunette type, was gown in white satin fashioned in princess style reaching to the floor. She wore a long veil held in place with orange blossoms and pearls. The bridal bouquet was a shower of roses and lilies of the valley. She also carried a beautiful pearl rosary, a wedding gift from the groom. Mrs. Ryan chose beige chiffon and lace for her gown and wore a large hat and satin slippers. She carried an arm bouquet of coral roses. Mrs. Roberts was gown in pink chiffon with hat and slippers in harmonizing color. Her flowers were pink sweet peas and roses.

Special music for the wedding included solos with choir and organ accompaniment. The soloist was a sister of the bride, Mrs. William Lewis, Los Angeles.

Mrs. Harrington is well known in this vicinity, having been a student of St. Joseph's academy. Mr. Harrington has been employed as agent at the Anaheim Motor Transit depot for three years. He was formerly with the Santa Fe depot, Anaheim, having come to California seven years ago from Colorado, where he received his education.

After a short honeymoon trip to San Diego, Mr. and Mrs. Harrington will establish their home in Anaheim.

A reception to which between 40 and 50 relatives and friends were present, was held immediately after the wedding at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis.

HouseholdClass Party Resolves
Itself Into Shower
For Bride-elect

That definite charm that seems to characterize all parties and meetings of Mrs. L. D. Mercereau's class of girls, was especially pronounced Thursday evening when members accepted the invitation of Miss Gladys Thomas, to hold a party in her home at 914 South Main street.

While there was a certain interval devoted to the necessary business of election, the festive note was uppermost, and was stressed by the vivid decorations in which Miss Thomas and her hostess committee used quantities of wee button chrysanthemums. The election placed Mrs. Charlotte Gammell in the presidency, with Mrs. Helen Blissett, vice president; Miss Myrtle Abplanalp, secretary; Mrs. Edna Burrow, treasurer; Mrs. Helen Rowley, Mrs. Martie Lackaye, Miss Edna Gammell, Mrs. Margaret Householder, Mrs. Amy Bracewell, Mrs. Anne Johnson, Mrs. Elizabeth Shugart, and Mrs. Blanche Witt, lookout committee; Miss Gladys Thomas, missionary treasurer, and Mrs. Louise Mueller as flower chairman.

Business affairs were then relegated to the background, and much to her surprise, Miss Elena Mercereau, daughter of the beloved teacher of the class, discovered that she was the center of interest, because of her approaching marriage to the Rev. Einar Knudsen of Oakland.

Slips of paper bore the names of various tresses and hope chest articles, all with letters so transposed that their re-arrangement in correct sequence, provided a hilarious half hour. It was announced that a prize awarded to the one who turned in the first correct list, and in the same breath, it was stated that Miss Mercereau was the lucky person. Her prize was one of those beautiful all-wool blankets whose delicate colors and luxurious warmth the joy of a home-maker's heart, and which had been chosen very carefully by the class as its contribution to the bride-elect's chest of treasures.

During the remainder of the pleasant evening, each guest wrote her favorite recipe for a card index file, and Mrs. Cameron Townsend sang a song written by her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Townsend are missionaries in Guatemala and have almost completed their furlough in this community where they have been guests of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Townsend, in Santa Ana Gardens, and of his sister, Mrs. Gene Griset. They will leave in time to be back at their station for the Christmas holidays.

As a finale to the party, refreshments were served on daintily decorated trays, by Miss Thomas and her co-hostesses, Mrs. Peggy Henderson, Mrs. Inez Howard, Mrs. Albert Wallace, Mrs. Esther Van Hoy, Mrs. Frances Nall, Miss Alice Rugg, Miss Florence McCartney and Miss Helen Klein.

Orange Home Was Scene

At the conclusion of the evening's card session, the dainty prizes selected by the hostess were awarded to Mrs. Florence Obar and Mrs. Morris Mackel who held first and second high, while Mrs. Mabel Elliott was consoled. With the midnight hour came a delicious two-course supper, continuing in the chosen scheme of the evening.

Yuletide Bride-elect Was Showered With Gifts
At Bridge Party

A wealth of brilliant-petaled poinsettias, clusters of red-berried shrubs and fragrant roses in the same deep tone featured the lovely floral decorations used last evening when Miss Sue Verberg and Mrs. Fred W. May entertained in the latter's home at 1101 South Van Ness avenue, in honor of Miss Mildred Vieira.

Miss Vieira is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Vieira, 324 East Bishop street, and her engagement and approaching marriage to William Houston Hawley of San Francisco, has been a delightful "open secret" to her many friends. Last night's party was the first of several which are planned to commemorate her before the wedding, which will be an event of Christmas week.

Three tables of bridge were in progress, and when tallies were checked, Miss Beth Fuller and Mrs. Jo Blair were awarded attractive prizes for holding first and second high scores. During the presentation of gifts Miss Vieira was given a number of interesting looking packages which disclosed an array of lovely linens.

An appetizing refreshment course was served at a late hour when the card tables were spread with attractive linens and pretty appointments.

Thanksgiving Meeting
The attractive room of the Y. W. C. A. was used most effectively on Wednesday afternoon in the giving of an historical pageant at the annual Thanksgiving meeting of the Missionary department of the Congregational Women's Union.

During the short session preliminary to the pageant, Mrs. L. M. Smith gave a brief report of the recent annual meeting at Long Beach, of the Los Angeles Association of Women's Missionary societies, with particular reference to the work among the Mexican people of Pomona Valley, and the social service and medical work in the Madura mission of India, where a very inadequately equipped hospital is serving thousands of needy people.

The pageant, "Go and Tell" brought vivid pictures of the women of many ages, all actuated by the same motive, to give to those among whom they lived, Christ's interpretation of God and human life. Lovely Lydia, a Jewess of Philippi, A. D. 63, was represented by Mrs. Lella Patton, and succeeding her, down through the years to the present time, were Monica, mother of Augustine, A. D. 365, Lucy V. Schrock; Clotilda, Queen of the Franks, A. D. 690, Catherine Marbie; Hilda, the great missionary teacher, A. D. 640, Alfrida, A. D. 1290, Jessie J. MacFarlane; Student Volunteers, A. D. 1930, Shirley Marbie, Mildred Allyn Congdon, Carol Smith.

Each in turn, took her prayers and her gifts to the cross. The story of each was read by Estelle Card Beaman, and Mrs. W. S. Spicer provided a lovely musical background with her violin, softly played through the readings. At the close the women of the audience also laid their gifts at the foot of the cross.

The pageant was given by the Mothers' club with Mesdames W. S. Rose, H. D. Andrews, Lura Livess, Frances State, J. E. Harless and R. R. Russick as hostesses. The latter presided at the social hour in the dining-room, which brought the pleasant afternoon to a close.

Introducing each other in the French language caused much amusement among the guests and adding to the merriment was a French game "Qui est Non" which was played. At the end of the period cake, cookies and tea were served by members of the class.

Bon Matin was started last year amongst a group of first year French students wishing to become more familiar with that language and for social gatherings. Julian Lecrivain is the president and Miss Lella Watson, head of the language department, is the advisor.

ANN MEREDITH'S
MIXING
BOWL

Does the family like pie? I have yet to see one that doesn't, if given the chance to get acquainted with it. I dislike the messy job of making piecrust every time I want a pie for dinner, so I have changed my tactics and now mix enough dry ingredients at one time to make three or four pies. I stir the mixture in the nearest pastry mixture I have ever used; here it is:

4 cups sifted flour.
1 teaspoon salt.
1 teaspoon cream of tartar.
1 cup lard.

I sift the dry ingredients onto the moulting board, cut the very cold lard in thin slices over the flour; the lard is then cut into the flour with a knife until it is about the size of peas. The mixed dry materials are kept in a jar in the refrigerator and it is only a moment's work to add the liquid and have a pie in the oven baking.

For mixing the crust I use very cold milk to which I add a tablespoon of salad oil for each cup of the dry mixture. This is the flakiest, nicest pie crust I have ever made.

TODAY'S RECIPES

CREAMED CORN BEEF HASH
2 tablespoons melted butter.
1 rounded teaspoon flour.
1 cup thin cream.
2 cups minced parsley.
3 cups cold corn, chopped.
2 cups cold beef, chopped.
1 egg, for each portion.

Parsley and paprika garnish.

Corned beef hash is a noble food, sufficiently so to be served in the White House, and to be the secret weakness of great men. It can be made with the canned variety of corned beef quite acceptably, but to be exactly right it should be made with freshly cooked corned beef.

Put the butter to melt in a double boiler, blend with the flour, add the thin cream, which can be the top from a bottle of unsalted milk, and stir until a very thin sauce results. Season it nicely, stir in the minced parsley, then the cubed potato and corned beef. Be careful not to stir after adding the potato or the mixture will become mushy.

Now to make this masterpiece among hashes: To my mind one of the real reasons for serving hash lies in the crusty brown expanse of top or bottom so don't choose a small deep dish for baking, but use one that is shallow and wide.

Five minutes before the hash is taken from the oven, make decorations in the top with a spoon and in each depression drop a lightly poached egg and dust with melted butter, paprika and parsley and serve immediately.

There are portions for six in this recipe, each with a caloric value of 450. Because this hash is rich in energy foods it should properly be served as a dinner dish with plenty of cooked green vegetables, a salad and some simple dessert, preferably fruit.

Bread making made easy—the current leaflet, is offered free for the last time today. Send me a stamped, self-addressed envelope and a copy will be mailed promptly.

Au revoir till Monday.
ANN MEREDITH.

Calumit Auxiliary

Reports of recent successful activities of Calumit auxiliary were of chief interest in the meeting of the members on Wednesday night in Knights of Columbus hall. One of these reports dealt with the bazaar, cooked food and rummage sale conducted recently and which repaid its sponsors (Calumit Sewing Circle members, with Mrs. Elizabeth Erickson as chairman) so generously for the labor involved. Proceeds will be used in the relief work of the auxiliary.

Another report was of the Tennessee float entered in the Armistice day parade, whose log cabin, Negro mammy and dancing pickaninies secured the silver cup given as second prize. The cup will be placed among the various trophies won by the organization and its drill team. Members recalled with much pleasure, their day in Anaheim, when after attending the parade, they were welcomed to the home of Mrs. Rena Wheeler, where some 70 guests joined in a covered dish dinner, and admired the cup presented through Mrs. Elva Threl, president.

On Thursday, Mesdames Rena Wheeler, Marie Lindquist, George Hubbard and Josephine Farrar of the auxiliary, went to the National Military home at Sawtelle, taking the auxiliary's contribution of warm quilted bed jackets to soldiers in Ward No. 2, for whose upkeep the members have assumed the responsibility. They reported the comrades as getting along nicely.

At next Tuesday night's meeting, Calumit camp and auxiliary U. S. W. Y. will join in a covered dish supper to be served at 6:30 o'clock in K. C. hall. Mrs. Zora Area will be chairman of the women's committee.

The "Health of the Child" was discussed and very interesting talks given by Miss Keel and Mrs. Hall. At the close of the meeting the sixth grade mothers served refreshments.

Members of Shiloh Circle, ladies of the G. A. R., entertained quite a few veterans of the G. A. R. yesterday at the dinner given at noon in K. Consider the Other Meals On Turkey Day

By MISSIS PHYLLIS

MOST people know what they want to have for Thanksgiving dinner. The menu is more or less set by tradition. And people give most of their attention to dinner. Of course that is excusable, since it is so great a feast. But after all, the day will start a great deal better if the breakfast has its share of thought. And if the supper is a sketchy meal, why dinner is almost forgotten, no matter how fine it was.

For both of these meals there is one thing especially important to remember. Don't have them too heavy. Beware of too much food! For breakfast how about a bit of apricot froth, oatmeal with figs, cinnamon toast and a shirred egg in an asparagus nest? Have all servings reasonably small. The perfection of the meal is not in quantity but in the daintiness of serving and the novelty of the foods.

APRICOT FROTH

Stew a half pound of dried apricots till very tender. Put them while still hot through the potato ricer or through a strainer. Chill this pulp thoroughly. Beat two egg whites very stiff. Fold in the apricots and serve in glass sherberts garnished with a maraschino cherry or a rubyette.

OATMEAL WITH FIGS

Use the slow-cooking oatmeal. Have ready two cups of boiling salted water. Stir in quickly a cup and a quarter of oatmeal. Stir constantly and cook for five minutes. Add a half cup of figs, cut into small pieces. Add a half cup of milk, stir well, then cook over water (a double boiler is always the best thing in which to cook cereal) from a half hour to an hour and a half, according to when you want to serve it. Just before serving stir in a tablespoon of butter. That's oatmeal that is oatmeal.

CINNAMON TOAST

The children are sure to welcome this with their cereal and grown folk will find it as fine at breakfast time as for tea. Cut slices of day-old bread about a half inch thick. Trim off the crusts neatly. Toast to a golden brown. You will find the broiler a splendid place in which to make this toast. Spread the toast with softened butter, sprinkle with a mixture of cinnamon and sugar and return to the oven a moment, to melt the sugar and cinnamon.

SHIRRED EGGS AND ASPARAGUS

For these use the canned asparagus tips, but have them as long as you can get them. Build a sort of "log" enclosure or nest of the asparagus which has been thoroughly heated in melted butter. Cook the eggs in this fashion! Butter muffin tins well and break into each place one egg. Sprinkle with salt and pepper and bake in a hot oven until the eggs are set, but not hard. Remove whole from tins and put into the asparagus nests. Serve immediately.

Now what about supper? The family is pretty well surfeited with rich foods, but still are getting a wee bit hungry. Suppose they have oyster stew with spread crackers and canapes, and tiny mince pies for dessert.

OYSTER STEW

One quart oysters, 1 quart milk, 1-4 cup butter, salt to taste, pepper to taste, liquid from oysters. Drain off the liquid from the oysters. Bring milk to boiling point and add liquid. Add oysters and cook only until the edges begin to curl. This will be in three or four minutes. Serve at once.

SPREAD CRACKERS

The choice here is too numerous to list. If there are children spread some of the crackers with peanut butter to which a little honey has been added. Spread some with cream cheese, anchovy paste, cream cheese and chopped raisins, and olives and mayonnaise. Spread the crackers thinly and have them very fresh. They may be freshened in a hot oven if necessary.

For the canapes cut bread in odd shapes—triangles, diamonds, hearts, circles, etc. Spread some with finely-ground ham to which a little mayonnaise has been added. Sprinkle with the sifted yolks of hard-cooked eggs. Spread some with ground tuna fish and celery and garnish with slices of stuffed olives. Spread some with ground salmon and cucumber and garnish with slices of hard-cooked egg.

TINY MINCE PIES

If you have very small individual pie tins they will be fine for this dessert. If you haven't, use muffin tins.

One thing to remember is not to have the pie dough rolled too thick. If you do, your poor little pie will scarcely be flavored with the mince meat.

Line the muffin tins with pie dough rolled thin, but not so that you can see through it. Fill with mincemeat. Make a crisscross strip crossing or cover the whole pie, as you prefer. Bake in a hot oven till lightly browned. Reheat just before serving and serve hot with sharp and mild cheese.

Beauty's Gestures

By CHARLOTTE C. WEST, M. D.

POISE is the most essential quality of the well-bred woman; and this, by the way, is, at the last analysis, nothing more than a serene tranquility of the mind.

Persons characterized by poise will attract your attention regardless of face, form, feature, or clothing. Their bearing is noticeably striking; their calm assurance speaks of an inner grasp upon themselves which nothing can shake. They are, furthermore, absolutely unconscious of self.

The manner in which you handle yourself is really a matter of great importance. Carriage, with all that pertains to it, is perhaps the greatest asset a woman can have, for it is more than beauty; it counts more than fine clothes, for fine clothes worn by a woman of uncertain presence lose their effect.

It is the tactlessness, the instability, the forwardness of a certain type of modern girl which gives the impression that she is utterly lacking in this quality.

There is a peculiar sameness about the girl of this period. The tendency of the times for all to think alike, look alike, dress alike, act alike, and soon is fatal to that individuality which stands out as personality.

MANNERS are a magic wand which open every door. Business opportunities, social advancements, friendships, success, everything in life, succumbs to the charm of manner.

Can it be cultivated? Decidedly; yet it springs from a true, inward sense, the goodness of all things. The veneer masquerading as fine manners is soon brushed off by any emergency or unexpected circumstance.

Manners are not dependent upon your status in life. Most people are interested almost exclusively in themselves; therefore, to display a warm sympathy in their affairs, wins their confidence and appreciation.

A sympathetic temperament draws and attracts like a magnet. But it must be sincere; a mock interest, a mock sympathy, displayed for ulterior motives, rings with insincerity and deceives no one.

If you are wise you will take an inventory of your assets and cultivate them until they stand out as jewels. To a few nature has given a beautiful voice. If you have been gifted in this manner, center your impersonality around it, for the human voice is the truest medium of expression at your command. If your voice is not naturally a beautiful one, you can train it to some approximation of what it ought to be.

THE absolute ugliness of most gestures that are unconsciously made never seems to occur to those who are most guilty of them. So many young girls ruin all pretensions to a pleasing personality by their silly and artificial mannerisms.

A favorite trick is to clap the palm of the hand over the mouth after having made an unseemly remark; another, to wink the eye knowingly for the same reason; or to nod the head vehemently in emphasis.

Tricks of manner such as thrusting out one shoulder to direct another's attention to a given object, or a sideways nudge of the elbow for the same purpose, are awkward, ungainly gestures that usually spring from ignorance of what is appropriate at the time.

Poise is the first essential to an easy, graceful carriage, but if the body is not well balanced, that is, properly proportioned, the defects must first be corrected.

Children in Slavery

By OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

"LUTHER!"

No answer. "Luther! Luther Grimes, where are you?"

Silence for another 10 seconds, then a treble voice trickled down from the attic. "I'll be down right away. I'm just finishin' this sign."

"Luther! Come right down this second."

Come on, now."

Down came Luther looking like a chimney sweep.

"You're a nice sight!"

"Well, if you'd waited till I got through I could have got most of this off up there. Gee, Mom, I promised Mr. Murray that sign this afternoon." Mrs. Grimes disregarded this. "I want you to do something in the laundry. You can wash up down there. There are a lot of old boxes and cans and bottles piled up. Put them in those two peach baskets and take them out in the yard for the rubbish man."

Luther went to the cellar.

A HALF hour passed and his mother began to realize that a deep quiet had descended. She looked outside. No rubbish, no peach baskets, no Luther.

"Luther! Luther Grimes, whatever are you doing?" she called down the cellar stairs.

"Nothing. I'll finish in a minute."

"I just found a funny flat brass thing with angles and circles cut inside, and I'm practicing with a piece of coal. It would be grand to make letters on Mr. Murray's sign."

"Well, you sign off, young man. That brass thing is only some of your father's old drawing rubbish. Keep it if you want, but get those baskets out."

She started to get lunch. No butter!

"Luther!"

"I'm just getting the last little bits in, Mom. Through in a minute."

"Well, let it wait. Go down and get some butter at the store."

WHEN Luther came back he said, "Mom, can I go up and finish that sign while you're getting lunch?"

"No, there won't be time."

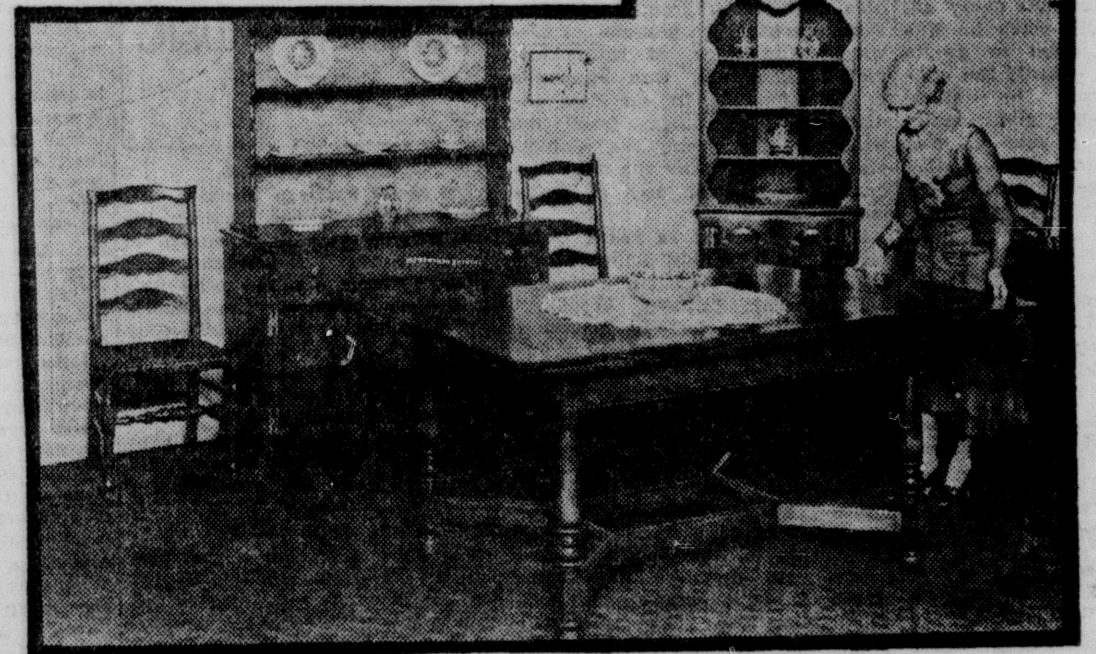

Half an hour later lunch was ready. Luther was an hour late with his sign. Mr. Murray was angry and wouldn't give him another order. But more serious things were to result. This was only one day of many hundred like it. The boy was never allowed to work out his interest to a finish. Constant interruption had its effect in time.

Why? Because his mind had gotten into the habit of expecting interruptions, and failed to establish the habit of keeping itself at one job for more than a few minutes at a time. To start a thing was a signal—off went his attention at something else.

This is a common sense of unfinished work, poor attention and lack of concentration. Interest too constantly interrupted, and a superimposed time schedule that makes no allowance for experiment, are responsible.

In training children we should, except when absolutely impossible, allow them to work out their ideas to the end. It develops them.

Dressing Up the Dining Room For Thanksgiving

THANKSGIVING seems to stand for family reunions and food, especially food. Every woman, in making her Thanksgiving day preparations—amidst the excitement of planning a menu, selecting decorations, and sending invitations—visualizes herself the calm and gracious hostess seated among her guests at the perfectly appointed table. She prays that by the time everyone is seated at the meal, her worries will be over and she can, at least in some measure, enjoy the menu she has struggled so hard to have correct and appetizing.

That pleasure and relief will be the portion of the woman who has considered the furnishings of her dining room, amid the hectic preparations for the great day. Since Thanksgiving is so largely the dining room's day, it might be a good idea to present it with an entirely new suite of furniture. If you are not among the fortunate who can give themselves and their guests that pleasure—do not despair, just start planning what can be done.

If your dining table is one of those nervous, fidgety kind that is susceptible to a jumpy dance on three legs every time anyone bumps it ever so slightly, your Thanksgiving dinner is probably going to be completely ruined for you. There are not many hostesses whose poise and inward calm remains unruffled through the heart-rending experience of seeing the disfiguring stain of coffee, consommé or fruit juice streaming across her gleaming linen or delicate lace. The table which has those weaknesses should be replaced by one of steadier habits.

HAVE you ever gone to a family party and been obliged to sit at the table in a chair which was intended for use at a low desk, or at the sewing machine? If you have you will want to spare your own guests that uncomfortable experience. If your dining room does not have enough chairs to accommodate your expected guests, Thanksgiving is a splendid excuse for you to get the required number. You might duplicate the kind you now have or you might make the chairs a start on an entirely new dining room set which you plan to have in the future—near or distant. There are many interesting, comfortable and decorative styles in straight chairs which may be used for the dining room or for the living room. They can always be distributed somewhere throughout the house, if not always needed in the dining room.

NOW notice your serving equipment—all your relatives will. Have you the furnishings which will make possible the easy, quiet, expeditious serving of the menu you have spent so many days and nights thinking out? Will hot things come to the table hot and the cold things cold? A server and buffet in the dining room will greatly facilitate the intricate business of serving. It is difficult enough when there are servants, and in many homes where there are none, it is a burden which can be alleviated only by adequate furnishings, intelligently arranged.

A pair of serving tables, of the flip-top variety, on either side of the door leading into the kitchen, will offer excellent places to put dishes to be used during the meal. Fruit, nuts and candies may be prepared for serving and placed on the buffet, where they are a decorative note.

The great gastronomic event of the season will be remembered with greater pleasure by all if the serving of the meal is quiet and uninterrupted. All of which takes planning.

FARM NEWS FROM EVERYWHERE

Successful Year For California Fruit Growers

REPORT SHOWS STATE OUTPUT DURING SEASON

SACRAMENTO, Nov. 22.—California fruit growers had a successful year, according to the preliminary check of final production of fruit crops for 1930 by E. E. Kaufman, agricultural statistician for the California Co-operative Crop Reporting Service.

Preliminary estimate of pear production is 227,000 tons, the same as earlier forecasts. California production accounts for 37 per cent of the entire pear crop of the United States, Kaufman said. Quality of the crop has been generally good, despite severe damage wrought by pear blight in some districts. The crop is compared with a production of 190,000 tons in 1929 and 224,500 tons in 1928.

Harvest is nearing completion in grapes. Preliminary estimate of total production now stands at 2,091,000 tons. It is estimated that California produced 88 per cent of all grapes grown in the United States. Wine grape production is estimated at 511,000 tons, of which 27,157 cars have been shipped from the state.

No production estimate has yet been made for figs, although the state average is reported at 86 per cent full crop, compared with 79 per cent in 1929 and 60 per cent in 1928.

Olives average about 55 per cent of a full crop, below the average for the past two years, which was 64 per cent in 1929 and 68 per cent in 1928.

Navel oranges show little change during the past month and now stand at 84 per cent of a full crop. Early harvested fruit from Sacramento and San Joaquin valleys was delivered to packing houses during the last week of October, which is considerably earlier than last season. Navels are reported as coloring rapidly in these areas. Valencia show an improvement in outlook and are now rated at 84.

The lemon outlook has gradually improved and now stands at 83 per cent of a full crop.

Grapefruit condition is reported at 86, a very slight improvement for the month, with early fruit from Coachella and Imperial valleys in the market.

Almonds have had a good season, with a preliminary estimate of 13,500 tons production, compared with 14,000 tons harvested in 1929, and 14,000 tons in 1928.

A crop of 31,000 tons of walnuts is now estimated.

Grapefruit Act Unconstitutional

SACRAMENTO, Nov. 22.—The section of the fruit, nut and vegetable Standardization act relating to maturity of grapefruit is unconstitutional, the state department of agriculture has been informed.

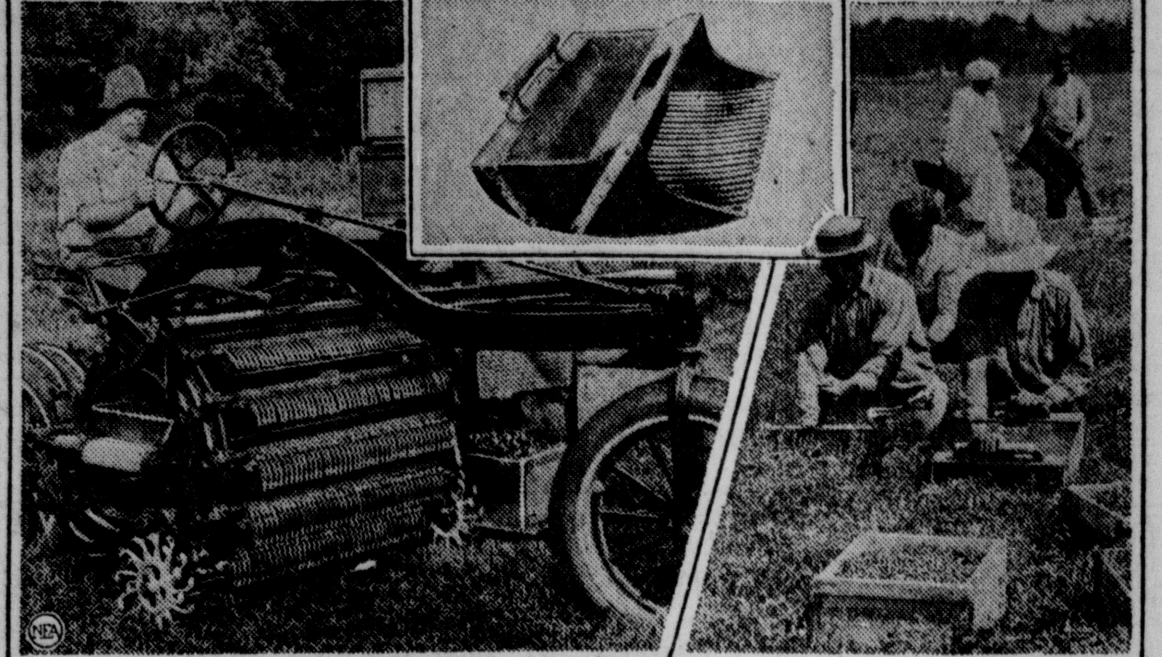

A district court of appeal gave the decision on a writ of habeas corpus sought by two dealers charged with mislabeling and selling grapefruit which did not meet requirements of the act.

PICKLED PICKLES

The average yearly production of cucumber pickles in the United States is about 3,000,000,000. The crop is grown on about 74,000 acres and yields growers of more than $4,000,000.

TURKEY DINNER TO COST LESS IN CALIFORNIA

BY ELWOOD SQUIRES
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
(Special To The Register)

SACRAMENTO, Nov. 22.—The cheapest Thanksgiving dinner in 15 years.

That's the good word for California housewives, given by the state department of agriculture, after an investigation into the cost of the coming holiday repast.

"Prices on every item that goes into the meal have fallen at least 20 per cent below the mark last year at this time, with the single exception of butter."

Turkeys, the most expensive part of the menu, are particularly low in price this year, and unless something occurs to disturb the market, fine young dressed turkeys should cost the retailer about 30 cents a pound.

Oranges and grapefruit are pouring into the markets and by Thanksgiving they should be in great abundance. Prices have held up during the first influx, but will be from 10 to 20 cents lower in another week, it is estimated.

Celery, olives, nuts and other "trimmings" have all had a big production with consequent lower prices.

Particular attention of those in charge of the meal is directed by the agriculture department to such commodities as potatoes, cauliflower, string beans, tomatoes and other vegetables. Of exceptionally good quality, they are down in price to a level that is reminiscent of pre-war days.

Canned goods usually maintain a fairly constant price. But this year bargains are available in peaches, apricots, etc. The fruit crop was abundant and the public will benefit.

Lettuce has recovered from a slump noticeable during the summer and fall, attended by high prices. Quality has improved, however, and price has fallen.

Artichokes are not advised for inclusion in the menu at present. Heavy shipments east, combined with local conditions, have boosted the price to some extent, although it is possible, department officials said, that this vegetable may come down to a price where it can be safely included in the "economy dinner" by Thanksgiving.

Massachusetts Growers Are Aided By Machine That Takes Place 10 Men

BOSTON, Nov. 22.—Most of us know where our Thanksgiving and Christmas turkey is coming from, but few of those know where the turkey's chief aide-de-camp, the cranberry, from which the ever-present cranberry-sauce is made, is cultivated.

Massachusetts probably produces more cranberries than any other state in the union—there being only five out of the 48 in which the berries are grown. The other states are New Jersey, Wisconsin, Oregon and Washington. Consequently while there may be a surplus of wheat, corn, potatoes and other farm crops, there is never a surplus of these berries. In fact, the supply is never enough to meet the demand.

The bulk of cranberry picking is still done by hand, with the aid of wooden "scoops," or rakes with curved teeth. A skilled hand picker, paid by the box, can earn about $15 a day.

Introduction of a mechanical picker has greatly aided the industry. It is operated by gasoline and set with rows of curved teeth on a revolving cylinder. It can do the work of 10 men with scoops. It picks a bushel of cranberries in 45 seconds and covers from two and a half to three acres a day.

The machine does no damage to growing vines, due to the fact that its scoops work backward instead of forward. The pickers on the drum are in rows of 40, and as the drum revolves they move slowly through the vines, pull off the cranberries and carry them to the top of the drum. There they drop into boxes on the outside of the machine. Helpers follow the machine and remove the boxes as fast as they are filled.

The machine is simple to operate. It runs on three rubber-tired wheels, is run by gasoline and can easily be handled by one operator.

BIG POULTRY FARM

What is said to be the largest poultry plant in the world is operated at Reseda, Calif. It maintains a flock of 500,000 hens, and sells more than 150,000 of them every year.

The price to some extent, although it is possible, department officials said, that this vegetable may come down to a price where it can be safely included in the "economy dinner" by Thanksgiving.

GAIN RECORDED BY FIELD CROPS OF CALIFORNIA

SACRAMENTO, Nov. 22.—California field crops showed an increase in production for 1930 over 1929, with the single exception of cotton, according to the preliminary final estimate of the California Co-operative Crop Reporting Service.

Yields per acre have turned out better than anticipated earlier in the season for corn, grain sorghum and particularly for rice. At a time when drought conditions prevailed throughout the middle west and east, California field crops were outstanding in good production.

Indian corn will total 2,924,000 bushels, it is estimated, and it is possible that about 50 per cent of the acreage will be utilized for grain or forage, resulting in a noticeable reduction of corn production on a grain basis.

Grain sorghum will probably total about 4,026,000 bushels and will exceed the 1929 crop because of larger acreage and better yields per acre this year.

Sugar beet yields have turned out about as expected with a preliminary estimate for a total production of about 750,000 tons. Rice crops have turned out much better than anticipated earlier in the season and even from reports of as late as October 1. Preliminary estimates indicate a yield of 63 bushels per acre, bringing the total crop to about 6,930,000 bushels, equivalent to about 3,129,000 bags.

Preliminary estimate of the yield per acre of "standard" lima beans is about as anticipated and the production is estimated at 952,000 bags. "Baby" limas have turned out a much better yield per acre than expected and the total production is now placed at 616,000 bags. For "beans other than limas" the production is placed at about 2,016,000 bags.

The sweet potato crop turned out better than expected earlier in the season with a total estimated crop of 1,320,000 bushels. Probable production of white potatoes is 5,755,000 bushels.

A drop in acreage now standing for harvest has caused falling off of the cotton production total for 1930, but satisfactory harvest weather during October and an excellent yield has speeded up picking. Unless unusual wet or foggy weather should occur in the San Joaquin valley before the greater part of the crop is harvested, California should gin 230,000 bales from 268,000 acres.

COTTON HARVESTING SPEEDED IN STATE

SACRAMENTO, Nov. 22.—Cotton growers are basing their hopes for a fair monetary return this year on a large yield per acre. Due to low prices the growers must produce more cotton, the Federal State Crop Reporting Service said in its cotton report.

California is ahead of other states in yield, with an average indicated of 411 pounds per acre. Satisfactory harvest weather during October and an excellent yield has speeded up cotton harvesting. Ginning at most plants is working to capacity, night crews being employed at many places. Unless unusual wet or foggy weather should occur in the San Joaquin valley before the greater part of the crop is harvested, California should gin 230,000 bales from 268,000 acres.

Estimates are that 55,000 bales will be harvested from 100,000 acres in Lower California, Mexico.

The forecast from the entire United States indicates a production of 14,438,000 bales from 44,791,000 acres.

SOUTH AMERICA OFFERS MARKET FOR CALIFORNIA

BY HOMER L. ROBERTS
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
(Special To The Register)

SACRAMENTO, Nov. 22.—What is the value to California agriculture of the recent formation of a Pan American Institute at Sacramento?

This question was answered here this week by R. V. Winquist, manager of the trade and promotion department of a steamship company of San Francisco.

"Let us first take the case of Brazil," he said. "Within her boundaries is an area larger than the United States, with a population of over 40 million—equal to that of Germany. She has half the area and half the population of South America, yet Brazil buys an insignificant amount of our fruits when compared with Germany."

"We find the humble prune is taxed by the Brazilian government as a luxury. It is considered an unusual delicacy, available to the wealthier classes. The import duty on prunes and dried fruits is high. On the other hand, we admit large quantities of Brazil's coffee and cocoa, duty free."

"The problem was put to Brazilian representatives who promised to recommend to their government that it revise the duties of our canned and dried fruits in its next budget. Prunes exchanged for coffee; what better example of trade reciprocity?"

Argentina, according to Winquist, is taking increasing quantities of fresh fruits from the United States, especially apples, pears and grapes. Although these fruits are permitted to enter free of duty, the United States imposes duties against Argentine fruits entering New York during the off season.

The Argentine delegation proposed that the United States consider the removal of duties against Argentine fruits, especially during the off season when there is no supply here.

"California agriculture has little to fear from competition of Latin American farm products," said Winquist. "Those sections of South America that produce competitive products are largely located south of the equator, so their products come on the market in our off season. For this reason, if we approach the question in a broad and fair-minded way, there is every reason to feel that we have much to gain and little, if anything, to lose through the adoption of the principle of complete trade reciprocity."

National Meeting Of Farm Bureau Is Set for Dec. 8-10

CHICAGO, Ill., Nov. 22.—The 12th annual national convention of the American Farm Bureau federation, which will be held in Boston, Mass., December 8 to 10, will commemorate the 30th anniversary of the establishment of agriculture by free men in America.

The farm bureau meeting is the last of a long series of national assemblies in Massachusetts during 1930 as features of that commonwealth's tercentenary celebration. Elaborate plans are being made for suitable observance of this occasion.

Following the lines of the organization's major interests, the convention program will be devoted to discussion of co-operative marketing and support of the Federal Farm board, to taxation, development of secondary roads, the American merchant marine and other topics of immense national importance to farmers.

IDEAL COMMUNITY

The ideal farm community, in the opinion of Dr. C. J. Galpin, sociologist of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, is composed of 1000 rural families. This number is necessary, he believes, to adequately maintain and support rural schools, libraries, hospitals, parks, playgrounds, churches, fire companies and the like.

SOIL SURVEYS HELD

Soil surveys taken by the U. S. Department of Agriculture and its field agents are proving valuable to farmers. Maps compiled from results have aided in the regulation of crops in various parts of the country and in application of correct fertilizer on wanting soils.

TON LITTERS

The U. S. Department of Agriculture estimates that a total of 4159 official ton litters have been raised in 37 states since the project was started in Indiana in 1922. Pennsylvania leads all states with 549 litters.

POOL PROFITS

About $1,000,000 is being distributed among Canadian farmers in Saskatchewan who were shareholders in the Saskatchewan Co-operative Elevator Company, Ltd., which is one of ten units making up the Canadian wheat pool.

WAR HERO NOW RAISES COWS

Herdling cowing Boches during the World war probably furnished lots of practice for Sergeant Alvin C. York, greatest hero of the war, who now is herding prize cows and cattle on his farm in Pall Mall, Tennessee. He is shown here as he arrived in Cincinnati recently with a shipment of some of his cattle.

HEATERS HELD NECESSITY FOR FRUIT GROVES

Experience over a number of years in several areas of Orange county has shown that orchard heating is an economic factor in citrus production. The increasing area provided with heaters gives evidence of the need and value of such protection. Although the occurrence of low temperatures is not so extreme in this county as in some other citrus producing districts, there is a logical need for orchard protection in a few areas that are subject to minimum temperatures.

Installation of heaters and provision for fuel storage should be completed in early December, according to recommendations from Harold E. Wahlberg, farm advisor, so as to be in readiness for any killing temperatures that may occur during the winter season. The first injurious frosts sometimes occur before Christmas. In order to provide growers with the best information available on orchard heating, a bulletin has been prepared by the college of agriculture and the fruit frost service, giving all details of heater management. It is available at the farm advisor's office in Santa Ana.

In order to assist the growers in handling their frost protection work, the U. S. weather bureau fruit-frost service has been making nightly forecasts of the minimum temperature for about 50 different points throughout the winter frost season. These low temperature estimates have been broadcast nightly over radio station KHJ during the past several years. During the present season a change in plans has been made, and the forecasts will be broadcast directly from the weather bureau office at Pomona by remote control through radio station KNX, in Hollywood. This plan has been made possible through the co-operation of the California Citrus league and the owners of KNX. The broadcast over KNX will be promptly at 8 p. m. every night during the period from November 15 to February 15.

ENROLLMENT IN FARM CLASSES IN HUGE GAIN

SACRAMENTO, Nov. 22.—Enrollment in special classes in agriculture, home economics, and trades and industries, has shown a tremendous increase in the past 13 years.

Walter E. Morgan, chief of the bureau of statistics in the state department of education, has compiled figures in proof of this growth.

In 1917, the first year in which the federal government aided states in special education through the Smith-Hughes act, California had 1596 minors and adults enrolled in these classes. Only 23 schools were represented, in 10 counties.

But last year the enrollment had climbed to 43,190, with 170 schools represented in 45 counties, according to Morgan's figures.

HAY SITUATION IN SOUTHLAND TOPIC

Beginning each day at noon and continuing 10 minutes, talks of interest to farmers, growers and producers will be given during the week beginning November 24, under the auspices of the agricultural extension service, co-operating with radio station KFI, as follows:

November 24, "The Midwinter Poultry and Rabbit Show Contributions to Agriculture," Andrew Stodell, chairman, Los Angeles county rabbit producers' department.

November 25, "Truck Crop Question Box," F. H. Ernst, assistant farm adviser, Los Angeles county.

November 26, "Grape Growing in Imperial Valley," B. A. Harrigan, agricultural commissioner, Imperial county.

November 28, "The Alfalfa Hay Situation in Southern California," F. H. Ernst, assistant farm adviser, Los Angeles county.

"I'll bet," said Coppy, "those old ships have had some very wondrous trips. They must have sailed for years and years upon the ocean blue. A wondrous story could now unfold if each old ship could now tell all of the things, in years gone by, that each ship has been through."

"But, let us find some other place where there are ships still in the race against the storms and winds and such. I'll bet they're sights to see. There must be big ships real near. I'd like to climb all over one. Such sport appeals to me."

"Well, my son. Perhaps we can," replied the friendly Travel Man. "If you are game to walk a bit, I'll lead you to a fleet. This time of day the ships are in. If we are going, let's begin. Perhaps we'll find some fishermen, whom you'll be glad to meet."

And so, upon their way once more, they sauntered down the sandy shore. Soon Scouty cried, "Oh, look ahead. I see some big ships. Gee! They're all pulled way up on the sand. The sight of them is simply grand! If we can load around them, my, how happy I will be."

They reached the ships and Clowny cried, "Say, fishermen, can we all ride?" "I'm sorry," said one fisherman. "We are not going out. We've had our catch of fish today, so up on shore we're going to stay. However, if you wish to, all you lads can look about."

"That's fine," replied the Travel Man. And to the ships the Tinies ran. The sails were all rolled up real tight and there was room to roam. The Tinies scampered all around and interesting things they found. Said Clowny, "My, they're roomy. They would make a real nice home."

(The Tinymites meet a lace maker in the next story.)

Missing Letter Links

RULES

1. In playing golf on the Missing Letter Links the object is to change one word to another in a given number of strokes which is par. For example, to go from TEE to PIN in three strokes sounds hard but isn't. TEE-TIE-PIE-PIN. It's probably more difficult on a real course.

2. Change but one letter at a time and be sure the word you have used is one in good usage.

3. The order of the letters can not be changed.

LOIN to CHOP — Three good strokes and you should have the LOIN CHOP eaten up. If you nibble around too long you'll surely miss your par.

Flying Needle Club

Pale yellow tea roses combined most effectively with the Thanksgiving motif used by Mrs. F. A. Brown yesterday when she welcomed members of the Flying Needle club to her home at 924 South Garvey street, for one of their frequent days of needlework and friendly chat.

The roses made a charming study when arranged to center the table where an appetizing luncheon was served at mid-day while the guests paused in their labors to enjoy the menu. Special interest was given the meeting because it celebrated the wedding anniversary of one of the members, Mrs. Errol Barnes.

During the afternoon, the lucky prize of the occasion was won by Mrs. F. W. Gerberdorff, who will be the next club hostess, entertaining in her home at 1441 West Highland avenue. Plans were made for the Christmas meeting and gift exchange of the club to be held in mid-December.

Sharing Mrs. Brown's hospitality were Mesdames Errol Barnes, F. W. Gerberdorff, Delbert Johnson, William Kintz, Bernard Snee, Adolph Erickson and Miss Verena Bailey.

Garden Grove

Mrs. C. C. Violett, chairman of the American Red Cross chapter for the Garden Grove district, entertained with a 1 o'clock luncheon Thursday, for chairman of committees who are working on the membership drive.

Plans were laid out and instructions given for the Red Cross drive, which must be completed by Thanksgiving.

Garden Grove district has been divided into three sections. The Business and Professional Women's club will have the downtown area, the Lions club the district north and east of town and the American Legion post and auxiliary the south and west district.

Anyone not being able to locate the committees may enroll at the post office, First National Bank and Citizens Bank, of Garden Grove.

Those present were Mrs. Herman Thorpe, president of the American Legion auxiliary; Miss Mabel Head, secretary and treasurer of this district; Miss Norma Larson, chairman of the Business and Professional Women's club and Miss Eva Lake and Mrs. Ray Reafsnider. C. L. Pearson is chairman of the Lions club committee.

WHAT TO DO WITH OUR SURPLUS

The Farm Board has again bought 10,000,000 bushels of wheat to stabilize the price of that commodity. The question must arise, how far can that go. Is it to be a permanent policy to withdraw from the market commodities of which there is a surplus in order to keep the price up? If that be the case, what is to be done with the surplus?

We recognize that the wheat farmer has been hard put to it in recent years, and that something needed to be done temporarily to tide him over. But what needs to be done now is to reduce the wheat acreage, and thus reduce the wheat crop. When there is an overproduction of automobiles, the manufacturer has to dispose of them as best he can, and for such price as he can get. It is so in all departments of industry. If the government is to stabilize products by withdrawing the surplus from the market, why should not the fruit growers of this region overproduce, knowing that the prices will be kept up by enormous emergency purchases by the government?

Such interferences with the law of supply and demand have been disastrous hitherto. Britain and Holland tried to keep up the price of rubber by forbidding its export from their far East possessions. But the project, beside irritating international relations, collapsed. Brazil through its valorization law withdrew from the market the coffee surplus, with the result that other countries began to raise coffee to gain the benefit of the high prices. The result we know. When the valorization law was abandoned by Brazil, the bottom fell out in coffee prices, much to the advantage of American coffee drinkers, but to the discomfort of the coffee growers.

The less interference there is with the law of supply and demand the better it will be for all concerned. Government information as to the market's needs is helpful, and should be encouraged. It would be well if farmers could be informed as to how much wheat can be absorbed by the country at a price that will pay for its raising. Then surplus acreage might be devoted to other crops. Surely this bolstering up of prices by withdrawing the surplus from the market must come to an end if a greater economic evil is to be averted.

Will that poem of Rudyard Kipling, satirizing his country, be criticized for its reverse English?

THE PEOPLE PAY

Now it seems that New York City has been largely under the domination of the gangsters and racketeers, but New York has not been advertising it as Chicago has apparently.

Even the railroads, the news dispatches declare, all but one are paying tribute. If all the money paid to racketeers by the business men of this country could be employed to hire an army to protect business, it might be very helpful to orderly processes of work.

Come to think about it, business does pay its taxes and thereby supposedly employs such an army. If we could trace back this big stream to its source, and to the little rivulets that have contributed to its volume, we would find many of the lesser violations participated in by some of the very ones who are now forced to contribute to the racketeers. It is strange, but nevertheless true that people cannot realize that the only way to be protected from violators of law is to first observe the law, and to insist that all laws shall be obeyed and that there shall be no exceptions and no privileged class to violate law.

Incidentally, the people of this country are paying the racketeer, for the folks should not be deceived,—the cost of handling our production, whether it be rent, freight, labor or tribute to gangsters, is all added to the cost to the consumer. The people pay the tax.

WHO WILL ORGANIZE CONGRESS?

That depends upon Providence. According to insurance statistics, out of the 435 persons elected to Congress 10 will die before Congress convenes in December, 1931. Of course, no one knows whether they will be Republicans or Democrats. The chances are against an equal number of each dying.

It requires only a few deaths to change the political complexion of the next House, and if the deaths happen just before the assembling of Congress, it is more than probable that the House will be organized by the party toward which Providence will have appeared to be most kindly.

Mr. Longworth, the present speaker of the House, and Mr. Garner, the possible alternate, are good friends. There has been a good deal of joking between them as to who is to get the automobile which the government grants to the speaker. It is safe to say that no one will be able to determine who will have it until the day Congress convenes on the first Monday of December, 1931. Even if Congress should be called in special session earlier, these considerations still apply.

"GENERATOR" WINS HONORS

We want to congratulate the Generator class and particularly the ones who are responsible for the production of The Generator.

At the convention yesterday at Redondo, where report was given of the contest of the various high school papers, The Generator was pronounced first on make-up for its first page, second for sport page make-up, and received several third place honors.

This speaks well for the students and for their instructor.

"YES, A LITTLE BREEZE!"

"Last night the wind came, and blowed off the shutter on the side of mein house." Yes, it was a little breeze. It may be a good thing, for it just keeps the Californian down to moderation in boasting of his climate and other things.

It really was a beautiful gale. Its merit lay in its persistence and its hurry. Just like everything else in California, it seemed to be determined to get there and to get there on time. In fact, we were impressed that it was ahead of schedule, and we tried to find out what its hurry was, but it didn't stop to speak to us, except in terms that indicated that it was furious at any attempt to interrupt it.

Such breezes are good. They clear the atmosphere of everything except sand and dust and tumbleweeds and debris and various things. They get rid of things that are loose and disjointed, and expose the weakness of the hardware on the doors and windows and shows who the frauds are.

Yes, it is a real asset. It develops patience and courage and a certain longing for the beautiful sun to rise. It causes all to appreciate the usual things all the more. And we believe that Orange county today would vote for daylight savings or anything else that would reduce the night.

Yes, sir, it was a fine breeze. We have acquaintances back in the East, whose participation in the enjoyments of the night would have given us considerable satisfaction. Who was it that said that: "fleas are good for the dog, because they keep him from worrying over the fact that he is a dog." A lot of little troubles we had or thought we had disappeared. They were literally blown away last night. The Good Book tells us that "a city that is set on a hill cannot be hid." Speaking personally, there are some values in being hid.

A Record For the Course

New York Times

When Gustav Ebbing, a candidate for congress in the Twenty-first Ohio district (Cleveland), decided to make his campaign on his "flat earth" platform, he asked support from ex-Secretary of War Newton D. Baker, his most eminent fellow-citizen. Readers of The Times may still recall the exquisite response in which the former cabinet minister said that, while he was convinced that a reinspection of the "round earth" theory would be useful, he thought the House of Representatives the worst possible forum for scientific discussion, and therefore, reluctantly, he would be unable to support Mr. Ebbing.

Nevertheless, Mr. Ebbing ran. But such is the lack of interest in Cleveland in advanced science that Mr. Ebbing was considerably distanced by a Democratic and a Republican candidate who discussed moronic issues like the tariff and the business depression. In fact, while Representative-elect Crosser got 30,445 and his Republican rival 28,872 votes, the Twenty-first district gave to Mr. Ebbing only 101. But let him not be discouraged. In the precinct where from a roof Galileo gazed at the stars there were not so many who would have voted for the concept that the earth moves round the sun. When Columbus sailed from Palos the beach would not have yielded fifty who believed that he would find land in the shoreless Atlantic. And, as Mr. Baker's former secretary, Mr. Ralph Hayes, remarks, "this is the first one among Mr. Ebbing's campaigns in which he has broken 100."

Guardian of the Atlantic

Imperial Valley Press

It would seem as though old John J. Neptune cannot stir up a bit of a dirty mess on the Atlantic these days without Captain George Fried arriving on the scene to halt the efforts of John J. to add more population to the realm of his friend Davy Jones.

The captain was not the hero of yesterday's rescue of the Swedish steamer Ovidia, the Mauretania having reached the scene before him, but the captain and his good ship America, his companion in a previous thrilling rescue, stood hard by while the rescue was being completed, ready to aid in any way they could.

In January, 1926, Captain Fried, then commanding the Roosevelt, battled two days with old John J. and saved 25 men aboard the steamer Antiope, losing two of his own crew in the transaction, due to heavy seas and storms. For that feat he was acclaimed a hero and was decorated by congress.

Three years later, almost to a day, he took the America to the rescue of the steamship Florida, saving the lives of 32 persons and being hailed as a hero upon his arrival in New York.

Captain Fried is a capable seaman and excellent officer but he is somewhat of a dud as a hero. He has never endorsed a cigarette, entered vaudeville or the movies, nor even had his picture taken surrounded by a bevy of beauties in bathing suits. He's just a seaman, but what a seaman!

Why We Like Dirigibles

Riverside Daily Press

One of the British newspapermen who made the round trip across the Atlantic on the dirigible R-100 writes that the whole trip was reminiscent of Rudyard Kipling's fanciful tale—written a couple of decades or more ago—about transatlantic airships. There was the same sense of drama, of romance, the same feeling that the old science and tradition of the sea had been transfigured by being put into an entirely different setting.

It is that fact, probably, that makes most of us rather hope that commercial transatlantic airship service will eventually be established. We don't care much whether they would be timesavers; they would be very thrilling, and that is enough for us. Whenever the imaginative fiction of one age can be translated into the reality of the next we are all the gainers. That probably goes far to explain the general public enthusiasm for dirigibles.

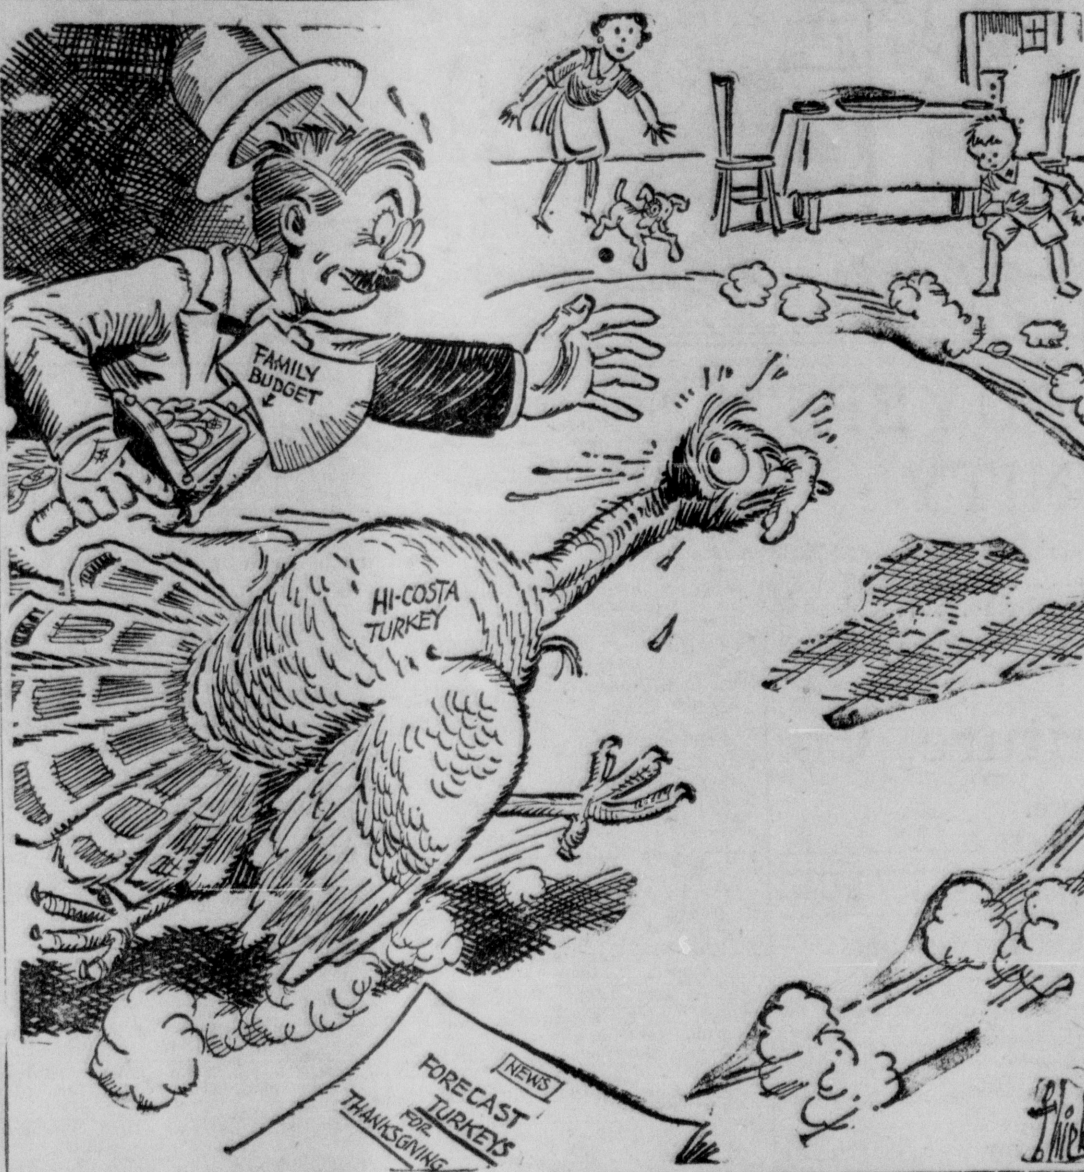

A Rash Lad

The San Diego Union

Our sympathy goes out to young Mr. Arthur Arlett, editor of the Daily Californian, who is now being targeted for brickbats of all sizes, tossed by both his fellow students at the University of California and by officials, educators and students at the University of Southern California. At the same time, we trust that Mr. Arlett realizes the enormity of his error. Mr. Arlett is the lad who editorially asked some pointed questions about the academic and commercial status of our leading football players, with particular reference to the gentlemen of the wonder team that lately beat California by 74 to 0. Mr. Arlett's mistake was in picking up a lot of campus conversation and setting it down in cold print.

The first rule of adult discretion is: Don't put it in writing.

More Truth Than Poetry

By James J. Montague

A PRIVATE PREFERENCE

Only cowards will flinch at the nip and the pinch
Of poverty's punishing claw,
The man of strong nerve will not tremble or swerve
When he faces real life in the raw.
Although hardships run rife in the battle of life,
And its gruelings stresses and strains,
You will find in the test that they bring out the best
One can muster in body and brains.
But if I had my choice I believe I could bear
A life without trouble or care.

Only cravens take flight at the blizzard's shrewd bite,
Or shudder like sheep in a fold
When to town they must wade through the snowdrifts, upgrade,
And the weather is bitterly cold.
In our grandfathers' day, he-men never gave way
To the hardships they met with the while
But struggled along, eager-hearted and strong,
And met all their cares with a smile.
But if I had my way, in the winter I'd be
Lounging 'round by some tropical sea.

Only weaklings confess that the road to success
Is a long dreary climb up the hill,
And prefer to recline 'neath a murmuring pine
By the side of a silvery rill.
All the good and the great have accepted their fate
And have never lain down in the race,
But have toiled every day on their glorious way
To the gateway of power and place.
But I'd vastly prefer to hold these things in thrall
Without any trouble at all.

"Against the Rest of the World"

By WILLIAM TRUFANT FOSTER and WADDILL CATCHINGS

The great man keeps his feet on the ground; but that does not prevent him from lifting his head into the clouds. The eminently practical author of Poor Richard's Almanac said, "An egg today is better than a hen tomorrow." Yet it was this apostle of common sense who sent a kite up into a thunder storm in order to catch lightning in a bottle.

"Practical politicians" boast that they can deliver the votes, without being squeamish over the methods employed. Don Roberts was a politician of this type. He elected himself Mayor of Terre-Haute by buying up votes on the "blocks-of-five" method.

"Watch him," said the County Chairman to Raymond Robbins. "Next to Taggart, he is the ablest politician in the State. He will be Governor of Indiana some day."

Robbins watched him; watched him until he became Number 893 in the Leavenworth Prison.

A shrewd trader made a fortune out of the War of the Rebellion. This man conceived of everything that would bring money as practical, and everything else as mere moonshine.

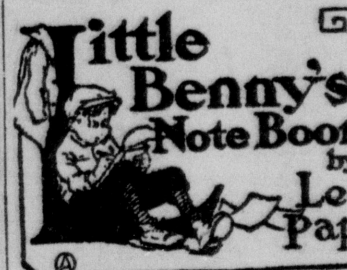

"I saw very quickly," he says, "that the War was going to be a money-maker for me." He tells of controlling the stock market by bribing Government officers. "But," he adds, "we didn't dare make offers of this kind to Old Abe. Lincoln was impractical as far as money went. All he thought of was saving the Union."

We need more idealists in politics today—also in business. We need men who dream dreams.

We need a leader with the stature of a Lincoln, of whom it will be said, some day: "All he thought of was abolishing poverty."

Many of our present-day leaders in business and in politics, who boast that they keep their feet on the ground, are knee-deep in mud.

Thoughts On Modern Life

By GLENN FRANK

THE ROAD TO PROSPERITY

I do not want to join the over-simplifiers.

I do not want to bring a false clarity to a situation that is admittedly complex.

The cause of the current economic situation cannot be captured in a phrase or its cure distilled in an epigram.

But one thing is, I think, sure.

As I stated the other day the leadership that has developed our policies for using goods and distributing wealth has not proved as capable as the leadership that has developed our processes for making goods and producing wealth.

It is by now a threadbare platitude to say that our machine economy is in trouble because our capacity to purchase has not kept pace with our capacity to produce.

The road to prosperity can I think be described pretty adequately in two sentences, viz:

First, we should put an end to what Foster and Catchings have called riotous saving. We should, as I stated the other day, substitute intelligent spending for unintelligent hoarding. There is a vast amount of frozen buying power in the United States that is today seriously retarding our return to business normalcy. If we can overcome this, if we can thaw out this frozen buying power, we shall take the first lap on the road to prosperity with an easy stride.

Second, the leadership of American business and industry must generally accept as one of its primary duties a healthy increase in the income and a healthy increase in the leisure of the working millions, not as an emotional crusade for social justice, but as a measure of ordinary business horse sense, for, as I have said so many times, it is suicidal for an industrial nation to spend its genius in creating processes for the production of a vast output of goods unless, at the same time, it spends its genius in creating economic policies that will put enough money into the pockets of the masses to enable them to buy and give enough leisure to the masses to enable them to enjoy the out put of the vast industrial machine it sets up.

The battered and beaten prophets who have fought for the rights of the masses of men over the generations may be able to take a vacation during the next generation, for the simple reason that unless the leadership of business and industry deliberately carries out some of the things for which the social prophets have fought—such as high wages, short hours, and low prices—business and industry cannot continue to be profit making enterprises.

OUR CHILDREN

By ANGELO PATRI

CONCENTRATION

When a child falls in school and the teachers are pressed for the cause they usually lay the trouble to the child's lack of concentration. Teachers are too busy to analyze the children's difficulties. That is the task of an expert psychologist and teacher. To give real service to the falling child he must be given personal attention over a long period of time. For a teacher to do that she must neglect the work for which she is employed—instruction.

When one says a child lacks concentration there is a great deal more implied than appears in that neat label. Concentration is sustained attention. Very few grown people are capable of long sustained attention. Younger children can attend for a brief moment and then their minds must rest. Attention is a come-and-go affair for the years of youth. It takes years of disciplined effort to sustain attention.

What the teacher means is that this child is not interested in the work he is to do and pays little attention to it. He will make a feeble gesture and turn to something else. He will tie the pencils together and spin them on the floor. This brings attention from other children and heals the ache of his loneliness. A falling child feels very lonely and friendless. Instead of punishing the idle child, the one who tosses spitballs, makes airplanes, cuts the desk, chews gum, hums, sprawls about the room, loses the place, grins, and the rest, it is our duty to see that his difficulty is discovered and cured. That is easy to say and hard enough to do.

Now whenever a teacher reports to you that your child's trouble is a lack of concentration begin work. Investigate, help, call in the expert. Many of these children get hold and do good work once their difficulty is discovered and adjusted. (Copyright, 1930, The Bell Syn., Inc.)

ON THE SIDELINES

Which may or may not be in accord with the views of The Register

—By Horace McPhee—

THE ONLY WAY.—Mrs. Rose Rostron has been appointed by Governor Young as supervisor of Santa Cruz county to fill the vacancy caused by the death of her husband.

Commenting on her appointment, the governor said Mrs. Rostron gave personal attention to her husband's affairs during his long illness, hence "it would appear to be especially wise and appropriate that she fill out her husband's unexpired term."

"You don't know as to the wisdom of this thing of appointing women to such office as that of supervisor?"

Well, neither does this writer know, that is to say he does not know for certain. And he is very willing to admit that there are women, lots of women who would never make good in such office. And precisely the same thing is true of men.

There is no reason on earth why a good woman who has a fair knowledge of business affairs should not make good as supervisor.

"Needs experience," you say! Sure she needs experience, and she can and will get it in the same manner that men do—by serving.

During a somewhat long life this writer has never known of a man being born with experience as supervisor.

SEEMS QUITE FEASIBLE.—A Chicago man has thought out what seems to be a comparatively simple method of preventing your wife from using the family automobile for driving out with the other chap.

His system is to take off the automobile wheels, hide them, break the ignition, take out the spark plugs and, finally, smack the other fellow on the nose.

If the Chicago man patents his idea there should be millions in it, and if he does not, well, there have been men who refused to patent valuable and useful ideas preferring, rather, to let the world have them without cost.

TRY IT ON THE FAIR.—Wonder if that "eat a duck" idea would work as well when applied to county fairs as it does in the case of the San Bernardino Orange show?

The system, formula, call it what you may, is apparently simple. For several years past the first thing done preparatory to holding the big orange show is to invite various and sundry persons who might, could, would or should be interested in making a success of the affair of the kind to a dinner to be given at San Bernardino.

The list of those bidden to the feast comprises a goodly proportion of people representing localities other than San Bernardino. When all are assembled all are expected and required to eat a duck. After this has been done preparations for the orange show go rapidly on, and the show itself seems to be more successful each succeeding year. What connection there may be between eating a duck and becoming an earnest booster for the orange show is deponent saith not. All he knows is that the matter is as here stated.
